Bricker Amendment Dispute Heads For Senate Floor Fight

George Declares There's No Hope For Compromise

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2 (AP)—Veteran Sen. George (D-Ga) announced today all hopes for a bipartisan compromise on the Bricker amendment have vanished and the issue of limiting the President's treaty-making powers will have to be fought out on the Senate floor.

As the first move in the battle, George obtained Senate agreement to make his own substitute amendment its first order of business.

This version is opposed by the White House, but George predicted it is going to get "a surprisingly large vote."

He said he didn't know whether Sen. Bricker (R-Ohio), whose own proposal for a constitutional change is practically dead, would go along with the George substitute.

Two-Thirds Majority Needed

The support of Bricker and his friends appears to be imperative if any constitutional amendment is to get through the Senate. About 20 of the 96 senators are opposed to making any constitutional change at all affecting treaty-making powers. A two-thirds majority of those present and voting is necessary for passage.

"There is no hope for any compromise now," George told reporters. "The negotiations are over. We just have to fight this matter out on the floor. The White House doesn't want a section of my amendment. Atty. Gen. Brownell wants to revise it in a way I can't accept."

The senior Democratic member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee spoke after a meeting of his party's policy committee, indicating that a strong bloc of the Senate's 48 Democrats will support him.

"Perfecting" Amendments

In a later parliamentary maneuver, Republican leaders introduced as individual amendments almost all of a compromise proposal which has been shuttling back and forth between the White House and Capitol Hill for several days.

Omitted was George's requiring that international agreements can become effective as internal law only by an act of Congress. The White House has objected to this language.

Sen. Knowland of California, the GOP floor leader, explained the individual amendments were offered as "perfecting" amendments and thus would come to a vote in the Senate before George's substitute.

ON TRIAL — Rep. Ernest K. Bramblett, California Republican, poses in the U. S. District Court building in Washington where he went on trial on charges of falsifying his office payroll in connection with an alleged kickback of $4,036 from two women. Bramblett has pleaded innocent. The government charged yesterday that Bramblett received by way of kickbacks all the money paid out to a woman carried on his House payroll from Sept. 1, 1949, through December, 1950. (AP Wirephoto)

Humphrey Says Ike Tax Plan Will Spur Prosperity

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2 (AP)—Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey, under heavy Democratic fire, strongly defended the Eisenhower administration's tax program today as calculated to bring another year of prosperity little below the boom levels of 1953.

The administration's basic aim, Humphrey said, is to produce "more jobs, better jobs, and higher and better standards of liying."

Democratic legislators promptly countered with a free-swinging attack on President Eisenhower's tax policies, declaring that bigger tax cuts for consumers would provide a better spur to prosperity than tax stimulants to industry.

Fulbright Takes Issue

Sen. Fulbright (D-Ark) sharply challenged Humphrey's views as the Cabinet official appeared as lead-off witness before the Senate-House Economic Committee at the outset of month-long hearings on Eisenhower's economic report to Congress.

William McChesney Martin Jr., chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, is scheduled to testify tomorrow.

Fulbright told Humphrey that instead of holding the line on further general income tax cuts now, as recommended by Eisenhower, Congress should approve higher personal tax exemptions to increase public purchasing power.

Humphrey Disagrees

Such a step, he said, would "stimulate consumption of the things we are already able to produce."

Disagreeing, Humphrey argued that the President's tax program benefits both industry and consumers, and the 6¼ billion dollars in actual or proposed tax cuts this year will cost the government about all the loss in revenue it can stand.

Roosevelt's Wife Promises Proof Of Her Charges

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 2 (AP)—Mrs. James Roosevelt today promised to prove her misconduct charges with "indisputable evidence" and said her husband's denials are "without basis in fact."

Three attorneys speaking in her behalf said her separate maintenance complaint filed last Thursday "speaks for itself" and added:

"It would not have been filed if we did not have indisputable evidence in support of its allegations. Such proof will be forthcoming at the proper time and place."

Mrs. Roosevelt is scheduled to appear in court Friday to seek $2,000 a month temporary alimony and $1,500 monthly support for their three children.

Mrs. Roosevelt, the former Romelle Schneider, named three women as co-respondents in her suit against the late Franklin D. Roosevelt's eldest son.

Included with her complaint was a 1945 letter signed by her husband admitting infidelities with nine other women.

He told newsmen yesterday he now recognizes "it was blackmail" when he signed the letter prepared by attorneys. He signed it to keep his wife from proceeding with "a divorce naming all individuals" and adding to his father's burdens as President, he said.

Senate Discusses M'Carthy's Inquiries, Votes Him $214,000

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2 (AP)—The Senate debated the value of Sen. McCarthy's investigations for two hours today, then voted him $214,443 with no strings attached to continue his work for another year.

The Wisconsin senator defended the work of his Senate Investigations subcommittee largely against charges by Sen. Ellender (D-La) that while finding little new, it rehashed "old stuff" previously dug up by others.

But when the showdown came, Ellender joined the huge majority which voted 85-1 to approve the new grant of funds. The lone dissenter was Sen. Fulbright (D-Ark), who had taken a minor part in the debate.

The McCarthy-Ellender duel ranged over a broad scale of McCarthy's activities—Ft. Monmouth, Voice of America, overseas libraries, stockpiling, and others.

"Dramatized" Cases

Ellender conceded that McCarthy "has done a lot of good in dramatizing some of these cases so the American people can understand what's going on." He said that although other committees had covered much the same ground, they were "not so fortunate as my friend from Wisconsin" in getting publicity for their work.

But he said he was interested in avoiding the added cost of congressional investigations which duplicate work other agencies can handle.

McCarthy insisted he always had consulted with other congressional committees about possible duplication in the past year, and said he would continue to do so.

But he said flatly he would not commit his group not to investigate in a field in which he felt another committee had whitewashed a situation or done a bad job.

Amerasia Probe Planned

For instance, he said, he plans to take up with other members of his committee a new probe of "one of the foulest conspiracies this country has ever seen—the Amerasia case."

That case, which already has been investigated by Senate and House committees over a period of years, involved charges that government documents were removed from files and taken to the New York offices of the magazine Amerasia, which ceased publication in 1948.

Western Delegates Shiver In Cool Air At Big Four Parley

BERLIN, Feb. 2 (AP)—Any way you look at it, the air was cool today at the Big Four foreign minister's conference.

The Russians turned on the air conditioning in the conference chamber of the new Soviet Embassy in East Berlin, where the cold war meeting was going on. Outside it was freezing.

French delegates said everyone was shivering except Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov, who had complained about too much hot air in the meetings when they were held in West Berlin last week.

He drew the attention of the other ministers to the cool atmosphere and appeared quite proud of it.

Third Super-Carrier

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2 (AP) — The third of the new 60,000-ton Forrestal class carriers, designed to handle the biggest Navy planes in an atomic warfare age, will cost about $182,000,000 and be built in the Virginia yards of the Newport News Shipbuilding and Drydock Co.

'Dead' Man Restored To Life By Massage, Electric Shock

BURLINGTON, N. J., Feb. 2 (AP)—A man "dead" of a heart attack was restored to life by quick massage and electric shock of his heart, physicians said today.

The revival is believed to be the first of its kind done this way, said doctors of Burlington County Hospital.

His heart stopped during an attack of coronary thrombosis, a blockage of the heart artery by a blood clot, one of the biggest killer diseases.

To all intents and purposes he was dead. Body tissues begin dying after blood flow stops. The brain is often affected first, suffering damage usually if it is deprived of blood for four minutes or so.

Usually heart attacks hit people at times and places where nothing can be done soon enough. Quick injections of adrenalin sometimes may revive the heart.

But this man happened to be in the hospital accident ward when he fell unconscious with his heart attack. A surgeon opened his chest, began squeezing the halted heart with his hand. It began twitching, and then the electric shocks restored normal rhythm.

Massage or electric shock or both have re-started hearts of scores of people during surgery. Surgeons could reach the heart quickly, even if the surgery was not being done on the heart. But in the unusual case reported today, the patient was not already under anasethetic or being operated upon.

French Fail To Halt Push By Vietminh

HANOI, Indochina, Feb. 2 (AP)—Vietminh columns speared another 23 miles today to within 62 miles of Laos' royal city of Luang Prabang. They advanced despite a pounding from French fighters and bombers and a beating administered to one rebel advance guard by Laotian troops.

The rebel drive across northern Laos toward the Mekong River, dividing Indochina and Thailand, was part of a general Vietminh offensive that crackled on at least six sectors. French Union forces beat off a new drive in south central Laos around Attopeu and Ban Phoung.

The strategy behind Moscow-trained Ho Chi Minh's winter push appeared to be to win enough territory for leverage in negotiating a favorable truce favorable to the Communist-led rebels in the nearly eight-year old Indochinese War.

The French command said all dispositions had been taken to protect key points in the Union's defenses.

But in upper Laos, key sector where the rebels were knifing toward Luang Prabang and the Thailand border, Union troops continued to pull back toward the royal seat while fighting hard rearguard action. Vietminh's powerful Division 308 had advanced at least 23 miles since yesterday.

Stevens Denies Fort Espionage

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2 (AP)—Sen. Ellender (D-La) read to the Senate today a letter from Secretary of the Army Stevens declaring the Army knows of "no espionage or other subversive activity" at its Signal Corps laboratories at Ft. Monmouth, N.J., center of a long investigation by Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis).

Ellender pulled out the letter after an exchange in which McCarthy asserted he had sworn testimony to prove there was spying at the fort.

First, Ellender asked whether the spying was 20 years ago, 10 years ago or was current.

McCarthy replied that he was "speaking of current matters."

Ellender then read Stevens' letter which he said was dated Jan. 15.

Ellender told McCarthy and the Senate he had written to Stevens, the FBI and the Central Intelligence Agency identical letters asking (1) whether their own investigators had "revealed espionage or any subversive activity" at Ft. Monmouth; (2) whether they knew of any subversion uncovered by the McCarthy subcommittee which their own earlier investigations had failed to expose, and (3) if McCarthy had turned up something new, why their own investigators hadn't learned of it first.

Concern Over Pope's Condition Increases

VATICAN CITY, Wednesday, Feb. 3 (AP)—Increasingly grave concern was expressed today for Pope Pius XII.

The British medical specialist who attended the late King George VI of Britain was reported unofficially to have been called into help treat the 77-year-old spiritual leader of the world's 400 million Roman Catholics. The British monarch died of thrombosis after an operation for cancer of the lung.

Pope Pius is believed to be weakening slowly as a result of sleep-disturbing hiccups from a nervous stomach disorder and from an all-liquid diet.

The independent newspaper Il Messaggero reported the Pope for several days has suffered stomach pains which require almost constant application of ice packs.

Explosion Follows Jet Crash

Action On NLRB Nominee Is Held Up By Committee

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2 (AP)—The Senate Labor Committee voted tonight to hold up President Eisenhower's disputed nomination of Albert C. Beeson as a member of the National Labor Relations Board pending a detailed study of his relationship with his former employer.

Earlier, the committee by a straight party vote of 7-6 had approved the nomination and sent it to the Senate floor for debate, which originally had been scheduled for today.

Vote Is 5 To 3

The vote tonight was 5-3 with five members of the committee absent.

This appeared to mean an indefinite postponement of Senate consideration of the nomination.

The vote was on a motion by Sen. Douglas (D-Ill) to request Paul L. Davies, president of Beeson's former firm—the Food Machinery & Chemical Corp., San Jose, Calif.—or another company official, to bring before the committee all documents and material relating to Beeson's pension.

Beeson had testified at the specially-called hearing that he thought his rights to his full pension would be protected for up to six months so long as his absence from the company was officially recorded as a leave of absence and not a resignation.

Made "Honest Mistake"

Democrats have argued that Beeson's leave of absence status, announced by the company last month, created a "conflict of interest" which made him unacceptable to serve on a quasi-judicial board, such as the NLRB.

Beeson said he understands that "unless the leave of absence is renewed" after the first six months, he would lose all rights to the company's portion of the pension plan.

Beeson told the committee that he made an "honest mistake" in denying that he ever said he planned to return to his old job after serving a one-year term on the board.

Guatemala Ousts Two American Newsmen

GUATEMALA, Guatemala, Feb. 2 (AP)—Guatemala's leftist government today expelled New York Times Correspondent Sydney Gruson and the National Broadcasting Co.'s reporter Marshall F. Bannell.

Gruson was charged with "defaming" the Guatemalan government and ousted as an "undesirable." Bannell said he was unable to find out the reason for his expulsion.

Guatemala charged last week that the neighboring Central American governments, "with the connivance" of the United States were allied in a conspiracy to wreck the regime.

Amorous Display Not Cruelty; Wife Is Denied Divorce

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., Feb. 2 (AP)—Making love to the wife in public isn't necessarily intolerable cruelty.

Superior Court Judge J. E. Murphy ruled so today in denying a divorce to Mrs. Margaret Herbst Mangin. She said her husband, Francis Mangin placed both arms about her, kissed her ear and rested his head in her lap in the presence of others.

State Dept. Probe Fails To Support M'Carthy Charge

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2 (AP)—The State Department announced tonight that a three-month investigation had failed to support a charge by Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) that State Department personnel shook down a foreign government for $150,000.

The department said its investigative authority did not extend far enough to determine "whether or not a bribe was solicited by other American citizens."

McCarthy made the charge last July 13, saying he had evidence that employes "in the old Acheson State Department" got the money from a friendly government in return for a legal service which he said it was entitled to receive "without paying any bribes."

Some six weeks later, however, he told reporters that "all evidence indicates there was a solicitation by State Department officials," but no certainty that any money actually changed hands.

President Confirms Hydrogen Explosion

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2 (AP)—President Eisenhower told Congress today that the United States made "the first, full-scale thermonuclear (hydrogen) explosion in history" at Eniwetok in 1952.

This was the first official confirmation that the vast explosion, which wiped out an island, was a full-scale test of devices leading to the dread hydrogen bomb.

Coffee Trading Controls Urged To Lower Prices

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2 (AP)—A maneuver to attack soaring coffee prices through government regulation surged forward in Congress today.

Joseph M. Mehl, head of the Commodity Exchange Authority, told Senate investigators government supervision could stop unwarranted boosts in prices.

Chairman Aiken (R-Vt), predicted the Senate Agriculture Committee would approve the necessary legislation and quickly start it on its way through Congress.

Exchange Sounds Warning

But the president of the New York Coffee and Sugar Exchange and one of its members testified that federal control of coffee trading might result in lower supplies and even higher price in the American market.

Before the committee, as it opened public hearings on coffee prices, was a bill by Sen. Gillette (D-Iowa) to add coffee to the various grains, cotton, butter and other commodities in which the CEA now attempts to prevent price manipulations and cornering of markets.

The hearings and the proposed legislation are an outgrowth of rising demands for action against price jumps that have taken coffee to more than $1 a pound in many stores and 15 cents a cup in some restaurants.

Speculation "Inherent"

Mehl had no reasons to offer for these increases. He did say he believes "speculation is inherent" in the coffee trade.

Gustavo Lobo Jr., president of the New York exchange, testified that government restrictions on trading might divert coffee supplies to other countries where demand is heavy and hike prices even more in the United States.

Survives 34,500 Volts

ALTON, Ill., Feb. 2 (AP)—Carrol Baldwin survived a 34,500-volt charge of electricity.

The 46-year-old mechanic was knocked 20 feet from a utility substation and his clothing set on fire when he touched a high power line yesterday.

Deputies Lift 24-Hour Siege Of Haymes, Rita Hayworth

NEW YORK, Feb. 2 (AP)—A 24-hour siege that isolated Dick Haymes and Rita Hayworth in their comfortable 12th floor hotel suite was lifted tonight.

Debt-enforcing sheriff's deputies decamped from the corridor outside their locked door after besieging them since 8 p.m. Monday. Haymes locked the door and stayed inside rather than face arrest.

A compromise was worked out between Haymes and one of his former wives, who claims he is heavily in arrears in his divorce payments.

"It's going to be awfully nice to see a clear, unobstructed corridor," remarked the beaming Miss Hayworth, as she changed from slacks to dinner dress and prepared to emerge.

Under Sheriff H. William Kehl left the peace conference in the Haymes suite to tell newsmen:

"He's a pretty swell guy. The important thing to Haymes was that Rita should not be involved or hurt in any way."

"They were both fairly tense. They looked like scared children."

Haymes' attorney, Bartley Crum, later told reporters:

"We have reached an understanding but the terms will remain private at this time."

Crum had spoken earlier of an immediate $4,000 payment as a possible basis for settlement with Haymes' former wife, actress Joanne Dru.

The night club singer and his bride, Miss Hayworth, went without food for the first 18 hours of their besiegement. Then the law called a temporary truce and juice eggs benedict, coffee and toast were wheeled in to them.

Moscow's Bid To Split Allies Is Denounced

U. S., France Demand German Peace Pact Without Red Shackles

BERLIN, Feb. 2 (AP)—The United States and France smashed a Soviet bid to torpedo the Western alliance today. With Britain at their side, they again demanded a peace treaty for Germany without Communist shackles.

U. S. Secretary of State Dulles emphasized the West's determination to maintain its defensive system as long as the Soviet Union wields "one man" domination over a military bloc of 800 million people.

He was backed up at the Big Four conference by Foreign Minister Bidault, who served notice that France would never enter any alliance with Russia that excludes the United States and Britain.

Bidault Rejects Soviet Bid

Bidault said Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov's twice-proferred scheme for a French-Russian-German alliance may have an "eminently desirable objective of providing European security," but Bidault refused categorically to consider it on Molotov's terms—renunciation of France's ties with America and Britain.

Dulles threw back Molotov's accusation of Western warmongering against Russia with these words:

"The greatest danger to world peace lies in the fact that in some cases a vast military establishment can be made to attack by the decision of a single nation, sometimes indeed by the decision of a single man."

Dulles' 2,400-word speech spearheaded the West's counter-attack against Molotov's uncompromising stand for "neutralizing" Germany under an imposed Red influence.

Warning Given Molotov

Both Dulles and Bidault warned the Soviet minister that his plan for Germany would revive the danger of German militarism by leaving that nation isolated but with national armed forces.

Together with Britain's Anthony Eden, they urged Molotov to take up without bitter polemics the Eden plan for unifying Germany by free elections at the outset.

They contrasted this with Molotov's insistence on setting up a provisional all-German government, including Communists, without an election, and having this government sign a peace treaty before the German people would be allowed to vote into office the leaders they want.

Molotov said he would submit a detailed Soviet plan for "free all-German elections" at the next session. There was no hint that this would be a climbdown in any way from his demand that the elections come last in restoring German unity.

Mortgage Rates Blamed For High Building Costs

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Feb. 2 (AP)—AFL President George Meany said today financing charges paid to bankers are more responsible than labor costs in keeping construction prices high.

Meany said wage rates in Eastern cities averaged $2.37 an hour in 1938, compared with $3.37 in 1953, but the purchasing power of the larger wage because of higher living costs is only $1.85 in 1938 dollars.

On the other hand, he said, mortgage rates and charges have risen until "now they are the largest single item in the cost of housing." On a 25-year mortgage, he said, the home owner pays out about as much interest as he does in retiring the principle.

"The banker is the one who gains," Meany said. "We never hear anyone suggesting an investigation of this type of racketeering, but we hear a lot of charges about featherbedding practices among construction workers and about bricklayers who are claimed not to lay enough bricks."

Meany's remarks were made at a news conference at the annual winter meeting of the AFL Executive Council. The council issued a statement criticizing President Eisenhower's recent housing proposals to Congress as falling "far short of what is needed."

Massage or electric shock or both have re-started hearts of scores of people during surgery. Surgeons could reach the heart quickly, even if the surgery was not being done on the heart. But in the unusual case reported today, the patient was not already under anasethetic or being operated upon.

French Fail To Halt Push By Vietminh

HANOI, Indochina, Feb. 2 (AP)—Vietminh columns speared another 23 miles today to within 62 miles of Laos' royal city of Luang Prabang. They advanced despite a pounding from French fighters and bombers and a beating administered to one rebel advance guard by Laotian troops.

The rebel drive across northern Laos toward the Mekong River, dividing Indochina and Thailand, was part of a general Vietminh offensive that crackled on at least six sectors. French Union forces beat off a new drive in south central Laos around Attopeu and Ban Phoung.

The strategy behind Moscow-trained Ho Chi Minh's winter push appeared to be to win enough territory for leverage in negotiating a favorable truce favorable to the Communist-led rebels in the nearly eight-year old Indochinese War.

The French command said all dispositions had been taken to protect key points in the Union's defenses.

But in upper Laos, key sector where the rebels were knifing toward Luang Prabang and the Thailand border, Union troops continued to pull back toward the royal seat while fighting hard rearguard action. Vietminh's powerful Division 308 had advanced at least 23 miles since yesterday.

Stevens Denies Fort Espionage

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2 (AP)—Sen. Ellender (D-La) read to the Senate today a letter from Secretary of the Army Stevens declaring the Army knows of "no espionage or other subversive activity" at its Signal Corps laboratories at Ft. Monmouth, N.J., center of a long investigation by Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis).

Ellender pulled out the letter after an exchange in which McCarthy asserted he had sworn testimony to prove there was spying at the fort.

First, Ellender asked whether the spying was 20 years ago, 10 years ago or was current.

McCarthy replied that he was "speaking of current matters."

Ellender then read Stevens' letter which he said was dated Jan. 15.

Ellender told McCarthy and the Senate he had written to Stevens, the FBI and the Central Intelligence Agency identical letters asking (1) whether their own investigators had "revealed espionage or any subversive activity" at Ft. Monmouth; (2) whether they knew of any subversion uncovered by the McCarthy subcommittee which their own earlier investigations had failed to expose, and (3) if McCarthy had turned up something new, why their own investigators hadn't learned of it first.

Concern Over Pope's Condition Increases

VATICAN CITY, Wednesday, Feb. 3 (AP)—Increasingly grave concern was expressed today for Pope Pius XII.

The British medical specialist who attended the late King George VI of Britain was reported unofficially to have been called into help treat the 77-year-old spiritual leader of the world's 400 million Roman Catholics. The British monarch died of thrombosis after an operation for cancer of the lung.

Pope Pius is believed to be weakening slowly as a result of sleep-disturbing hiccups from a nervous stomach disorder and from an all-liquid diet.

The independent newspaper Il Messaggero reported the Pope for several days has suffered stomach pains which require almost constant application of ice packs.

Explosion Follows Jet Crash

Action On NLRB Nominee Is Held Up By Committee

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2 (AP)—The Senate Labor Committee voted tonight to hold up President Eisenhower's disputed nomination of Albert C. Beeson as a member of the National Labor Relations Board pending a detailed study of his relationship with his former employer.

Earlier, the committee by a straight party vote of 7-6 had approved the nomination and sent it to the Senate floor for debate, which originally had been scheduled for today.

Vote Is 5 To 3

The vote tonight was 5-3 with five members of the committee absent.

This appeared to mean an indefinite postponement of Senate consideration of the nomination.

The vote was on a motion by Sen. Douglas (D-Ill) to request Paul L. Davies, president of Beeson's former firm—the Food Machinery & Chemical Corp., San Jose, Calif.—or another company official, to bring before the committee all documents and material relating to Beeson's pension.

Beeson had testified at the specially-called hearing that he thought his rights to his full pension would be protected for up to six months so long as his absence from the company was officially recorded as a leave of absence and not a resignation.

Made "Honest Mistake"

Democrats have argued that Beeson's leave of absence status, announced by the company last month, created a "conflict of interest" which made him unacceptable to serve on a quasi-judicial board, such as the NLRB.

Beeson said he understands that "unless the leave of absence is renewed" after the first six months, he would lose all rights to the company's portion of the pension plan.

Beeson told the committee that he made an "honest mistake" in denying that he ever said he planned to return to his old job after serving a one-year term on the board.

Guatemala Ousts Two American Newsmen

GUATEMALA, Guatemala, Feb. 2 (AP)—Guatemala's leftist government today expelled New York Times Correspondent Sydney Gruson and the National Broadcasting Co.'s reporter Marshall F. Bannell.

Gruson was charged with "defaming" the Guatemalan government and ousted as an "undesirable." Bannell said he was unable to find out the reason for his expulsion.

Guatemala charged last week that the neighboring Central American governments, "with the connivance" of the United States were allied in a conspiracy to wreck the regime.

Amorous Display Not Cruelty; Wife Is Denied Divorce

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., Feb. 2 (AP)—Making love to the wife in public isn't necessarily intolerable cruelty.

Superior Court Judge J. E. Murphy ruled so today in denying a divorce to Mrs. Margaret Herbst Mangin. She said her husband, Francis Mangin placed both arms about her, kissed her ear and rested his head in her lap in the presence of others.

State Dept. Probe Fails To Support M'Carthy Charge

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2 (AP)—The State Department announced tonight that a three-month investigation had failed to support a charge by Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) that State Department personnel shook down a foreign government for $150,000.

The department said its investigative authority did not extend far enough to determine "whether or not a bribe was solicited by other American citizens."

McCarthy made the charge last July 13, saying he had evidence that employes "in the old Acheson State Department" got the money from a friendly government in return for a legal service which he said it was entitled to receive "without paying any bribes."

Some six weeks later, however, he told reporters that "all evidence indicates there was a solicitation by State Department officials," but no certainty that any money actually changed hands.

President Confirms Hydrogen Explosion

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2 (AP)—President Eisenhower told Congress today that the United States made "the first, full-scale thermonuclear (hydrogen) explosion in history" at Eniwetok in 1952.

This was the first official confirmation that the vast explosion, which wiped out an island, was a full-scale test of devices leading to the dread hydrogen bomb.

Coffee Trading Controls Urged To Lower Prices

Joseph M. Mehl, head of the Commodity Exchange Authority, told Senate investigators government supervision could stop unwarranted boosts in prices.

Chairman Aiken (R-Vt), predicted the Senate Agriculture Committee would approve the necessary legislation and quickly start it on its way through Congress.

Exchange Sounds Warning

But the president of the New York Coffee and Sugar Exchange and one of its members testified that federal control of coffee trading might result in lower supplies and even higher price in the American market.

Before the committee, as it opened public hearings on coffee prices, was a bill by Sen. Gillette (D-Iowa) to add coffee to the various grains, cotton, butter and other commodities in which the CEA now attempts to prevent price manipulations and cornering of markets.

The hearings and the proposed legislation are an outgrowth of rising demands for action against price jumps that have taken coffee to more than $1 a pound in many stores and 15 cents a cup in some restaurants.

Speculation "Inherent"

Mehl had no reasons to offer for these increases. He did say he believes "speculation is inherent" in the coffee trade.

Gustavo Lobo Jr., president of the New York exchange, testified that government restrictions on trading might divert coffee supplies to other countries where demand is heavy and hike prices even more in the United States.

Survives 34,500 Volts

ALTON, Ill., Feb. 2 (AP)—Carrol Baldwin survived a 34,500-volt charge of electricity.

The 46-year-old mechanic was knocked 20 feet from a utility substation and his clothing set on fire when he touched a high power line yesterday.

Deputies Lift 24-Hour Siege Of Haymes, Rita Hayworth

NEW YORK, Feb. 2 (AP)—A 24-hour siege that isolated Dick Haymes and Rita Hayworth in their comfortable 12th floor hotel suite was lifted tonight.

Debt-enforcing sheriff's deputies decamped from the corridor outside their locked door after besieging them since 8 p.m. Monday. Haymes locked the door and stayed inside rather than face arrest.

A compromise was worked out between Haymes and one of his former wives, who claims he is heavily in arrears in his divorce payments.

"It's going to be awfully nice to see a clear, unobstructed corridor," remarked the beaming Miss Hayworth, as she changed from slacks to dinner dress and prepared to emerge.

Under Sheriff H. William Kehl left the peace conference in the Haymes suite to tell newsmen:

"He's a pretty swell guy. The important thing to Haymes was that Rita should not be involved or hurt in any way."

"They were both fairly tense. They looked like scared children."

Haymes' attorney, Bartley Crum, later told reporters:

"We have reached an understanding but the terms will remain private at this time."

Crum had spoken earlier of an immediate $4,000 payment as a possible basis for settlement with Haymes' former wife, actress Joanne Dru.

The night club singer and his bride, Miss Hayworth, went without food for the first 18 hours of their besiegement. Then the law called a temporary truce and juice eggs benedict, coffee and toast were wheeled in to them.

Moscow's Bid To Split Allies Is Denounced

U. S., France Demand German Peace Pact Without Red Shackles

BERLIN, Feb. 2 (AP)—The United States and France smashed a Soviet bid to torpedo the Western alliance today. With Britain at their side, they again demanded a peace treaty for Germany without Communist shackles.

U. S. Secretary of State Dulles emphasized the West's determination to maintain its defensive system as long as the Soviet Union wields "one man" domination over a military bloc of 800 million people.

He was backed up at the Big Four conference by Foreign Minister Bidault, who served notice that France would never enter any alliance with Russia that excludes the United States and Britain.

Bidault Rejects Soviet Bid

Bidault said Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov's twice-proferred scheme for a French-Russian-German alliance may have an "eminently desirable objective of providing European security," but Bidault refused categorically to consider it on Molotov's terms—renunciation of France's ties with America and Britain.

Dulles threw back Molotov's accusation of Western warmongering against Russia with these words:

"The greatest danger to world peace lies in the fact that in some cases a vast military establishment can be made to attack by the decision of a single nation, sometimes indeed by the decision of a single man."

Dulles' 2,400-word speech spearheaded the West's counter-attack against Molotov's uncompromising stand for "neutralizing" Germany under an imposed Red influence.

Warning Given Molotov

Both Dulles and Bidault warned the Soviet minister that his plan for Germany would revive the danger of German militarism by leaving that nation isolated but with national armed forces.

Together with Britain's Anthony Eden, they urged Molotov to take up without bitter polemics the Eden plan for unifying Germany by free elections at the outset.

They contrasted this with Molotov's insistence on setting up a provisional all-German government, including Communists, without an election, and having this government sign a peace treaty before the German people would be allowed to vote into office the leaders they want.

Molotov said he would submit a detailed Soviet plan for "free all-German elections" at the next session. There was no hint that this would be a climbdown in any way from his demand that the elections come last in restoring German unity.

Mortgage Rates Blamed For High Building Costs

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Feb. 2 (AP)—AFL President George Meany said today financing charges paid to bankers are more responsible than labor costs in keeping construction prices high.

Meany said wage rates in Eastern cities averaged $2.37 an hour in 1938, compared with $3.37 in 1953, but the purchasing power of the larger wage because of higher living costs is only $1.85 in 1938 dollars.

On the other hand, he said, mortgage rates and charges have risen until "now they are the largest single item in the cost of housing." On a 25-year mortgage, he said, the home owner pays out about as much interest as he does in retiring the principle.

"The banker is the one who gains," Meany said. "We never hear anyone suggesting an investigation of this type of racketeering, but we hear a lot of charges about featherbedding practices among construction workers and about bricklayers who are claimed not to lay enough bricks."

Meany's remarks were made at a news conference at the annual winter meeting of the AFL Executive Council. The council issued a statement criticizing President Eisenhower's recent housing proposals to Congress as falling "far short of what is needed."

Md. Assembly Organizes

Della, Luber To Lead Demos; GOP Reelects Kimble, Green

ANNAPOLIS, Feb. 2 (AP)—Democratic leaders quickly picked their General Assembly leaders tonight after opposition to Del. Luber (D-Balto 5th) for speaker, never amounted to anything and that of Sen. Della (D-Balto 6th) as president surrendered promptly.

Della's opponent, Sen. Sybert (D-Howard), withdrew after two ballots. The Baltimorean then won on the third ballot 16-0 with himself and Sen. Dippel (D-Balto 3rd) passing.

Last year, more than 70 ballots were taken before Della was elected.

Dippel voiced the only protest to the capitulation, claiming he had been "persuaded" by the senator from Queen Anne's to join the group last year against Della and now found the same senator, Edward Turner, coming out in advance on the other side.

Dippel said he found difficulty understanding Turner's reasoning that to do so was in the interest of harmony and to avoid last year's standoff since the switch created a 9-9 deadlock.

Luber was the only nominee, despite strong talk of opposition, at a brief caucus after C. William Hetzer, state Democratic chairman, told the delegates "your concerted effort has won victory for the Democrats in this chamber time after time, this same fighting spirit has likewise cost us victory when expended in the wrong direction."

Hetzer made exactly the same speech to the 18 Democratic senators whose failure to agree on legislative leaders last year held up its start for one week.

After hearing Hetzer, the senators nominated Sens. Della (D-Balto 6th) and Sybert (D-Howard) for president. The votes were eight to eight, with the candidates abstaining.

The same standoff prevailed at the start last year with two senators later shifting to Sybert.

After two ballots, the Senate Democrats recessed to determine if any sentiment shifts were to be made. Normally, a majority rules in a caucus although the Della faction refused to abide by any such understanding last year.

Hetzer told them "it is my sincere hope that you will let the majority rule in this caucus, and when your business has ended, that you will join in a united body."

The Eastern Shore again guaranteed Luber all its 26 votes and in turn was promised the majority floor leadership by him at a caucus. The Shore gave him the name of Awdry Thompson of Dorchester after Layton Riggin of Somerset withdrew as a candidate for the position replacing John Wood Logan of Caroline who resigned from the Legislature last summer.

Thompson, 38-year-old Navy veteran and lawyer, is a first term delegate from Cambridge. It will be his first committee chairmanship and the most important in the House.

Meanwhile, in Baltimore, House and Senate Republicans caucused and re-elected their leaders as had been expected.

Del. Green (R-Garrett) was unanimously re-elected Republican minority leader for the House after a brief but direct nomination speech by Del. Reed (R-Allegany), and Sen. Kimble (R-Allegany) was renamed minority leader in the Senate.

Bank President Tackles Bandit

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 2 (AP)—A bandit carrying a toy pistol in his belt attempted to rob the Riverside Bank today, but was captured after the bank's president brought him down with a flying tackle.

Police identified the man as William Lee Davisson, 33, of Clarksburg, W. Va. Davisson told police he came to Miami from Detroit by way of New Orleans, arriving this morning.

The bank president, Tully F. Dunlap, 37, told officers Davisson entered the bank about 1:45 p.m. and asked to see him.

Ushered into Dunlap's private office, the man sat down, pulled back his coat to display the pistol and said:

"I want $50,000. Put it in a bag for me. I have your wife and children in custody, so don't be too long."

Dunlap said he called to a cashier to bring in $20,000. He placed it in a money bag and handed it to Davisson. The latter got up and ordered Dunlap to accompany him.

When Davisson started to open the office door, Dunlap tackled him and then got a strangle hold on the man's throat. He yelled for a guard and the man was quickly subdued.

Mitchell Raps Meany Remarks

NEW YORK, Feb. 2 (AP)—Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell said today recent remarks by AFL President George Meany have overdrawn the dark side of the economic picture.

Asked about a statement by Meany to the effect that the nation's economy is "going downhill" and that the President should institute a public works program now, Mitchell replied:

"Well, I think Mr. Meany — who incidentally is a good friend of mine, whom I admire very much — is overdrawing the situation when he says things are going downhill."

He said Meany "is not an economist . . . I think his judgment is wrong."

Mitchell, interviewed during the "Kate Smith Hour" over NBC television, said he thought 1954 would be a good year and he saw "nothing but brightness" ahead.

Ex-Egypt Queen Granted Divorce

CAIRO, Egypt, Feb. 2 (AP)—A Moslem religious court granted a divorce today to former Queen Narriman and the sultry-eyed beauty joyously exclaimed "it's great to be Miss Narriman Sadek again!"

Narriman's mama, Mrs. Assila Hanem, added a note of thankfulness — "now my daughter can think of her future with a clear mind." But asked if Narriman was thinking of taking another husband, mama snapped:

"My daughter isn't thinking of remarrying now. But should she remarry, she will never marry an actor. It's against our family tradition."

This was a reference to reports that Narriman would marry Farid El Atrash, 38-year-old movie actor-crooner. Narriman, who is 20, had denied last week she intended to marry Atrash.

The action of the religious court ended a teen-age marriage with fat and frivolous King Farouk that had flourished amidst the glamor of palaces but faded in the smoke-filled hot spots of royal exile.

Injuries Fatal To C. H. Shrout

A 39-year-old Western Maryland Railway maintenance of way worker died yesterday at 6:21 a. m. in Memorial Hospital of injuries received Friday in an accident at Shaw, W. Va.

The victim, Charles H. "Red" Shrout, of Barnum, W. Va., was struck in the head by a railroad jack handle while attempting to place a derailed coal hopper back on the tracks.

Shrout had remained in critical condition since undergoing surgery Friday night. He suffered a skull fracture with damage to the left front section of the brain.

Railway officials said a large jack being used by a crew to lift the car slipped. The handle whipped around and hit Shrout, striking his left eye.

Fellow workmen rushed him to Kitzmiller where he was given emergency treatment by a physician and brought to Cumberland for the operation. He underwent a craniotomy and had the eye removed.

A native of Burlington, W. Va., Shrout was a son of Mrs. Maude (Harsh) Shrout and the late Wilbur Shrout. THE MOVE TO MODERN LIVING

See why the trend is growing to the 1954 Lincoln

The facts are simple: Lincoln is the one fine car whose sales have more than doubled in two short years.

There are good reasons why this trend keeps growing. The great new Lincoln for 1954 is the most dramatic edition of the car that started the big change in American motorists' ideas about fine cars.

Take, for instance, Lincoln's new styling—from the stunning new grille to the crisp, new rear deck and distinctive new taillights. It is a completely new design—akin to the ground-hugging, functional look found wherever the living is modern. Note, too, how well Lincoln's new colors and fabrics go with Lincoln's new styling; dramatic new shades in nylons, gabardines, and leathers.

Above all you have incredible performance. Lincoln's world-famous V-8 engine has the new automatic 4-barrel carburetor—gives you superbly controlled action at all times. Add to all this the optional features—power steering, power brakes, the 4-way power seat and electric power window lifts—and driving becomes practically effortless. You'll know what we mean the moment you drive a wonderful new 1954 Lincoln or Lincoln Capri.

Performance proof: Lincoln again won 1st, 2nd, 3rd and 4th places over all stock cars in the 1,912-mile Mexican Pan-American Road Race. CO-OP

Motives In Berlin

Tactics of Foreign Minister Molotov at Berlin indicate that Moscow really places unusual importance on its demand for a five-power conference to which the Western nations would admit Communist China as an acknowledged great power. These tactics have inspired search for motive.

Are the Soviet leaders so much concerned with boosting the prestige of the Peiping regime that they are willing to risk blame for obstructing the current meeting? Or, are they more interested in convincing Peiping that its best interests are served by acceptance of Moscow's leadership?

The surprise resolution for discussion of armaments reduction is directed to the same end—an international meeting on Soviet initiative to which Red China would be a party. There is no certainty where this would leave President Eisenhower's atomic proposal before the United Nations.

Why is Mr. Molotov so intent on forcing a five-power meeting? A forum for discussion of Asian problems with Peiping present has all along been available in the projected Korean conference. The West has held out the prospect that, after a Korean settlement, the delegates could move on to problems like that of Indo-China.

But as it has been proposed to set this meeting up, Red China's would be a dominant role, whereas the Soviet Union's would be secondary. Peiping might get the idea that it could be the bigger brother in the Communist partnership.

What Molotov refuses to acknowledge is the necessity of meeting the challenge repeatedly laid down by President Eisenhower and by Secretary Dulles—that the Soviet Union evidence its desire for peace by definite steps toward that goal instead of merely talking about it.

It would be simple to end the obstruction to a Korean parley. It would be easy to free Austria from wartime occupation. These are steps that would ease world tensions immediately and the transition from cold war to cold peace would be on.

Quiet In Korea

It is unnaturally quiet in Korea. The prisoner issue has been settled, once and for all, by the release of all former Communist troops, and by the disappearance behind the iron curtain of 21 American and several hundred South Korean troops.

While the U.N. has entered a formal protest about prisoners captured by the Reds who, evidence indicates, are still being held in violation of the armistice agreement, the Reds have ignored it.

Meanwhile, the Communists intermittently propose a resumption of negotiations to arrange a political conference. The offer is never made in good faith. Though the United States has insisted that the Reds withdraw insults before talks can be resumed, the Reds make no such offer.

Resumption of talks without such retraction would mean that the Red negotiators would again use the sessions for diatribes, without serious attempts to arrange for a political conference.

The suggestion that they cannot withdraw their insults without losing face is untenable. American representative Arthur Dean was careful to leave the door open to face-saving. He retorted to the Communist charge of American "perfidy" with a few homely truths about his opposite numbers. If the Reds really wanted to resume negotiations, they could save face by offering to withdraw their charge if Dean would withdraw his counter-charges. And Dean, having won his point, could make that concession.

The Reds are playing their old game. They do not want to resume the talks. But by occasionally making an unacceptable offer, they seek for propaganda purposes to make it appear that it is the United States that is unwilling to negotiate.

Tender Spanish Feelings

Air Secretary Talbott probably wishes he could give Spain back to the Spaniards and forget about it, for if the secretary can be said to have a jinx, Spain is it.

Last November at a press conference in Madrid Mr. Talbott said, in answer to a query, the United States would stock the proposed Spanish military bases with atomic weapons. Later he had to take the statement back when both his boss, Defense Secretary Wilson, and the State Department called him on it.

The other day at a Pentagon press conference he was asked whether the pact between Spain and this country provided for U. S. use of Spanish naval and air bases in wartime, too. Mr. Talbott asked bluntly: "Who's to stop us?" The inference was that this country would use the bases whether or not Spain was involved in any war. Later he appeared to have thought over the full significance of what he had said and sent a "clarifying" statement down to the Pentagon press room.

This said that the Air Force had every intention of living up to agreements made in its behalf between the United States and foreign countries in which this country has bases. He added that the Spanish-U. S. agreement provides that the "time and manner of wartime utilization of said areas and facilities will be as mutually agreed upon."

Perhaps the most fitting commentary on the whole business was provided by Mr. Wilson in the same conference. Mused Mr. Wilson: "This business of having bases in another man's country is a delicate one . . . unless you have the other man's good will you have nothing."

The Atom Around Home

From one of industry's great research laboratories comes word of a tiny atomic battery that may revolutionize energy production. This achievement by scientists at the lab of the Radio Corporation of America involves a method for converting atomic energy directly into small, usable quantities of electric power.

Future of the principle, a major advance on the road to human ease, is described as "glowing." Ultimately, according to David Sarnoff, RCA board chairman, it may provide cheap and lasting electric power for household equipment and appliances.

The announcement is supplemented by publication in the professional press of details of construction of the battery, itself an example of free dissemination of scientific knowledge. As such, it is a working demonstration of the manner in which American industry is proceeding in developing nuclear power for peacetime purposes.

How To Keep Well

White Cells On A Rampage

White cells are as helpful to a normal person as the army is to a nation at peace. The function of these corpuscles is to protect the body against infection and help repair damaged tissues. The average healthy adult has about 3½ billion circulating in his blood, approximately 1/1000 less than the number of red corpuscles. White cells rarely live longer than 12 days in contrast to red cells which have a span of 100 to 120 days.

The different varieties of white cells include the leucocytes, lymphocytes, and monocytes. They have the ability to change shape, depending upon where they go and what they do. In this respect, they resemble the single cell ameba, which is capable of becoming long and skinny to go through a narrow spot, or fat and round when floating freely through a blood vessel. The flexibility of the white cells allows them to approach bacteria and surround them like a drop of liquid. In this way the cell ingest particles at any place along its surface.

Engulfing the bacteria is one of its principal duties. When bacteria invade the body, several days elapse before the defense mechanism can produce antibodies to neutralize the effect of bacteria. During this time, the individual might die if it were not for the white cells that are available immediately. They enter the diseased area and swallow as many germs as they can handle while the immune processes of the system are being mobilized. This also explains why infections usually are accompanied by an increased number of white blood cells.

The white cells are manufactured in the bone marrow, spleen, lymph glands, and liver. In leukemia, the main disease in which the white cells are involved, these organs go on a rampage and produce 10 to 50 times the normal number. No one knows why. Although leukemia frequently is referred to as cancer of the blood, the term is erroneous as the blood itself is not involved.

There are several forms of leukemia and each is named after the type of white cell that predominates. Thus, in lymphatic leukemia, the majority of cells are lymphocytes. The chronic varieties are more prevalent after the age of 35, whereas acute leukemia favors children. The condition is fatal within two to four months, but during the past two years, the life expectancy of these youngsters has been increased an additional six months or more. This has been possible through the administration of ACTH, cortisone, or the anti-metabolite products, aminopterin and 6-mercaptopurine. Remedies also are available for chronic leukemia including the nitrogen mustardlike compound, TEM, as well as ACTH, cortisone, P32, and total body radiation. The exact treatment depends upon the form of the disease and whether it is in an early or a late stage.

SURGERY AND ADHESIONS

A. C. writes: What causes adhesions after operation?

REPLY

Adhesions are scars that develop within the abdominal cavity not only from the actual cutting but from irritation and inflammation. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on adhesions.

BULGING AND ENLARGEMENT

M. K. writes: Is an enlarged aorta the same as an aneurysm?

REPLY

Only in that an aneurysm represents a localized enlargement of the aorta. It resembles a bulge in the wall of an artery and the protuberance usually occurs in an area of the blood vessel where the lining is thin.

NOT ALWAYS

R. M. writes: Does a breast cyst always call for operation?

REPLY

Only when the surgeon is unable to distinguish the cyst from cancer.

HEALTH AFTER PREGNANCY

S. B. writes: Is there any truth in the belief that a woman's health improves after childbirth? I was weak and rundown before my first child but feel fine now.

REPLY

Psychologically, yes, but there is no reason why a woman's health should improve merely because of confinement. You must be taking better care of yourself now.

FAT AND THIN

W. S. S. writes: Are the slim as well as the obese (of the same age) subject to poor circulation of the feet?

REPLY

This depends upon the type of circulatory disturbance you have in mind. Arteriosclerosis leads to poor circulation of the legs in older persons and since the overweight are more prone to hardening of the arteries, they are earlier candidates for impaired circulation. But the thin are not immune to poor circulation and may develop the condition from other causes.

What's Behind Current Recession: Big Chunk Out Of Government Orders Must Be Replaced Somehow; Gouzenko Believes Russia's Secret Code Unbreakable

WASHINGTON—Though the nation's business is everyone's business, the testimony now being given before the Joint Congressional Committee on the Economic Report is in secret. A parade of economists, officials and unofficial, beginning with the President's top economic adviser, Dr. Arthur Burns, is trying to spell out what's behind the current recession.

Though they haven't said it in these exact words, many of the economists agree that the basic reason boils down to this:

> When you take thirty billions in defense orders out of the economy, you have to replace it with something else.

Spelled out in more detailed terms, the 1952 budget called for $60,000,000,000 of new defense equipment. The 1955 budget calls for $30,900,000,000. This is basic hardware. This represents millions of dollars worth of steel, copper, aluminum, and all labor that goes with it.

And when you take that big a chunk out of government orders, you have to replace it with schools, housing, bridges, roads, or something else. Otherwise the economy is bound to slump.

Advisers Warned Ike

Inside fact is that Dr. Burns has been giving warnings for some time that business was slipping. Burns is the ex-Columbia professor, born in Austria, who was named chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers last spring after the White House at first said Ike didn't need any economic advisers.

The President, however, was reminded that it was up to Congress, not to him, to decide whether he needed economic advisers, and that Congress required him, by law, to have three advisers for the purpose of helping him head off depression.

Ike thereupon acquiesced, appointed Dr. Burns, but didn't get around to appointing the other two economists required by law until late last summer.

Now the council is working overtime.

They do not agree with Ray Henle, commentator for big Republican contributor Joe Pew and the Sun Oil Company that to warn of a business recession is Communist propaganda. On the contrary, they believe that to head off recession you have to examine the economic factors carefully, as they did in Ike's own economic message to Congress. Furthermore they do not agree with some of the hucksters immediately around the President that the way to prevent a recession is to repeat over and over again: "We cannot have a recession."

The present recession is probably nothing to worry about provided it isn't permitted to go any deeper. The best way to prevent it, they suggest privately, is to make sure that the axing of government spending is not too sudden and to replace defense spending with at least some peacetime spending.

Unbreakable Russian Code

One interesting thing Igor Gouzenko told me during my visits with him in Canada was that the secret Russian code is unbreakable.

This, he explained, is because a virtually different code is used for almost every sentence. This was also why the Russian embassy in Canada was completely brazen about sending the atomic secrets they stole in North America and even the names of some of their spies back to Moscow by cable.

Ability to break the secret code of a foreign nation, especially in wartime, is the next best thing to having a well-trained army and navy. And on at least one occasion, the secret code of the United States may have been stolen by the Soviet.

This was when the two British diplomats, McLean and Burgess, suddenly disappeared behind the iron curtain, taking with them various secrets of British-American diplomacy. While they had no access to the American code, they did have decoded copies of American diplomatic documents, which when matched with coded copies picked off the airwaves, might have led to breaking our code. That was why 50 couriers were immediately sent from Washington carrying a new code to 50 different embassies abroad immediately after McLean and Burgess slipped behind the iron curtain.

Jap Code Broken

During the war the United States broke the Japanese secret code almost at will. This was what led to American victory in the Battle of Midway, where the U. S. Navy, intercepting a Japanese message, learned that its fleet was converging near Midway for an all-out attack on the United States. Almost the entire U. S. fleet in the Pacific was immediately rushed to Midway, resulting in a victory which crippled the Japanese fleet for keeps.

A Chicago Tribune newsman aboard one of the American vessels almost revealed that we had the Japanese code by publishing the entire list of the Japanese fleet—which could only have been obtained by breaking their code. A grand jury was called to prosecute the Tribune, but dropped in the end, when the Japanese failed to realize the significance of the published list.

If Gouzenko is right— and having spent years handling Russian codes, he should know—that the Soviet code is unbreakable, it throws light on why our intelligence is so poor inside the Soviet.

On The Line

By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK—(INS)—The death of Emanuel H. Bloch, lawyer for Julius and Ethel Rosenberg, makes more difficult—if not impossible—this reporter's search for the person or persons who gave the word to Russia that the Rosenbergs were "safe" . . . that they would go to their deaths without a word of confession, without naming a single accomplice.

Bloch, a brilliant and articulate man in the courtroom, died under the cloud of disbarment proceedings brought against him for the tone of his funeral oration over the coffins of his clients. In that inflamed speech he charged that President Eisenhower, Attorney-General Brownell and J. Edgar Hoover were "murderers" of the Rosenbergs. A day or two before he had cried. "Today, I am ashamed I am an American."

Those last minute fireworks were in curious contrast to his earnest statement to Judge Irving Kaufman, the jury, U. S. Attorney (now judge) Irving Saypol and Saypol's staff immediately after the death verdict had been handed down. He said then in effect that he and his clients had been treated fairly by all concerned.

But some days later, with the Rosenbergs now in the death house at Sing Sing, "the word" was passed. By whom we may never know. On signal, the Communist press of the world set up a cry of "Save the Rosenbergs." That same press had not deemed the couple worthy enough or "safe" enough to cover their trial. Bloch, so recently before the pleasantly resigned attorney in a losing case, became a leading spokesman for the "Save the Rosenbergs" movement and an ardent champion of their cause in a long series of legal appeals.

The wheels of a colossal propaganda machine had begun to turn. One can hardly hazard a guess as to what it cost that section of the Kremlin which handles such worldwide programs. Suffice it to say that its scope was such that in time the White House heard expressions of concern from spiritual leaders as militantly anti-Communist as Pius XII. More than 700,000 French workers signed petitions in the Rosenbergs' behalf. There were demonstrations in African jungles.

This tremendous propaganda effort would have boomeranged thunderously if the Rosenbergs had talked. If they had turned to the handful of us who sat in the death chamber that evening at Sing Sing and saw them strapped into the ghastly chair, and had blurted acknowledgement of their role in the Soviet spying apparatus, it would have been the most disastrous propaganda setback Russia ever suffered. It might have been one from which Russia would never have recovered, for in the eyes of the wavering world it could never be believed again.

There was an additional danger in this huge propaganda gamble with the Rosenbergs. If Bloch was successful and did win a reversal of Judge Kaufman's decision, or persuade the judge himself to make his sentence less severe, the Rosenbergs would now be serving the first of perhaps 30 years in jail. Plainly, that would have been risky. They were bitterly cold people, these two, but the constant rub of children and relatives from the outside world might in time have coaxed them to admit the crushing weight of evidence produced against them, and identify co-conspirators, in the hope of easing the sentence.

It was plain, it seemed to me, that Russia wanted (yes, demanded) that the Rosenbergs die, but die as dramatically as martyrs. But, more important, it was absolutely necessary that they die silent. Who gave that assurance? Why was the Communist world silent about them one day and confidently raucous the next? What conceivably were the guarantees against a sudden, human collapse of their iron will as the arms of the electric chair reached out? Did anyone hold them in line?

In the warden's office before he took us to the death house several phones stood ready to flash the word of a confession to Brownell, the judge and others. FBI men, matrons, guards had been alerted to be ready in case the Rosenbergs wanted to talk. But they walked resolutely and tight-lipped to the chair. Bloch, who saw much more of them than anybody else during their long stay in prison, was not there at the end. Now he, too, is gone, and with him what could have been light to shed upon a baffling case of domination of two human beings by self-will or outside forces beyond comprehension in a democracy.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — Thought control and the punishing of a man for his previous affiliations or economic beliefs seems to be a bad thing when a "liberal" is the victim, but praiseworthy when the so-called "liberals" themselves want to keep a man out of the government of the United States.

The latest example is the action of the six Democratic members of the Senate Labor Committee who formally recommended in their report to the Senate that the nomination of Albert C. Beeson, as a member of the National Labor Relations Board, be rejected. The report says frankly that the six Democratic senators "do not question Mr. Beeson's candor, honesty or integrity," but that they do question whether his experience as a spokesman for management in collective bargaining in the past would "color" his judgment.

Discriminatory Policy

If adopted as a policy in the Senate, it would mean that no man hereafter could work for the labor board who had ever served a trade union or the management side. It would mean that an American citizen would be disqualified from holding office and would be adjudged to be devoid of "impartiality" just because he once worked on the management or labor side.

Such a rule would have disqualified Cy Ching, who recently retired as head of the U. S. Conciliation Service and who, prior to his service in the government, was employed as head of the industrial relations division of the U. S. Rubber Company. Yet he did win the confidence of both labor and management.

Carried to its logical conclusion, this discriminatory policy would mean that labor mediators, arbitrators and other personnel could never qualify for service in the government in connection with the labor bureaus and boards of the government if they previously worked for management or labor. It is the most dangerous kind of persecution, and the so-called "liberals" who are sponsoring it are plainly violating the basic principle of fairness in their recommendation.

It was the late President Roosevelt — the hero of the "liberals"— who first proclaimed the doctrine of thought control in respect to appointees for government boards and commissions. In 1933, Mr. Roosevelt wrote a letter removing William E. Humphrey from the Federal Trade Commission because, as Mr. Roosevelt expressed it, he was sure that Mr. Humphrey's decisions "would not go along with" the mind of the President.

This case was carried to the Supreme Court of the United States on a claim for back salary, and, by a unanimous decision, the court held in May 1935 that Mr. Humphrey was a member of a "quasi-judicial" commission and therefore could not be removed for any such reason.

The National Labor Relations Board is a "quasi-judicial" commission. In selecting members for it, as is the case with judges on a court, it is a serious thing to say that a man cannot be impartial after he takes the oath to perform judicial duties.

"Liberals" Playing Politics

Yet one of the most noted of all "liberals," the late Senator George Norris of Nebraska, an independent, made a bitter fight against the confirmation of Charles Evans Hughes to be chief justice because of a charge that Mr. Hughes had accepted fees as a corporation lawyer. Mr. Norris lived to retract his charge and to commend the career of Mr. Hughes.

The same kind of attack was made on Judge John J. Parker, of the U. S. Court of Appeals, who was nominated by President Hoover to the Supreme Court of the United States. Mr. Parker's confirmation was beaten by the shameful tactics of labor-union lobbyists who charged that he once had sided against labor in an important case before the federal courts. Today he is acclaimed far and wide — even by labor unions — as a truly "liberal" judge. But he never got the appointment as Supreme Court justice that he deserved.

When a man of good character, honesty and integrity comes up for confirmation by the Senate and his previous employment gives him experience in the subject matter, it would seem that all groups would be eager to give him a chance to serve. But the "liberals" in the Senate are playing politics, and they don't seem to mind the punitive tactics of "thought control" when they are doing the punishing.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Our Labor Unions

Back in the early days of the New Deal, it made sense to quarrel over the nature and purpose of labor unions. I once wrote a book on the subject, which is now out of print, but which warned of the dangers of new trends in trade unionism.

In 1954, the labor unions are in the United States to stay and a system of operations has been established which has the sanction of congressional action and judicial decision. It serves no valid purpose to oppose trade unionism per se, although it is possible to say that those who opposed Prohibition kept up their opposition until a constitutional amendment was passed abolishing that abomination.

It is not likely that any opposition to labor unions will lead to a change in the social institutions arising from their existence. American industry has adjusted to the necessity of some form of collective bargaining under the legal arrangements first stipulated in the Wagner Law and now in the Taft-Hartley Law. The proposed revision of the Taft-Hartley Law, as advocated by President Eisenhower, in no manner alters the relationship between management and the unions. It is probably that management desires no radical alteration in those relationships, as was evident in a series of private conferences last spring and summer between lawyers representing industry and the unions. In fact, most industries, either separately or in their trade associations, have established permanent labor law departments as a result of the vast changes in management-union problems which have emerged and taken form since 1935.

Whether a union belongs to the AFL, the CIO, to John L. Lewis's separate enterprise or to an independent union, it is being managed by professionals whose principal business is to operate labor unions. These professionals may be divided into four categories:

1. Careerists;
2. The old school of Social Democrats;
3. Racketeers;
4. Communists.

The careerists are professionals who operate unions as a way of life and are concerned with the success of their unions. Such men as John L. Lewis and George Meany represent this type of labor leader and generally serve their unions well. They are usually good citizens and are honest as most men are in a competitive work. They subordinate all questions to the interests of their particular union. More and more unions are falling into the hands of these careerists and on the whole, this is as it should be.

The old line Social Democrats as a small but powerful remnant of pre-Wagner Law trade unionism, when the struggle between trade unions and management was generally difficult, and the unions not very successful. These leaders are ideologically Socialist, but they are anti-Communists. The battle between Socialists and Communists is often more violent than most of us realize. It has been continuous since 1903 at London, when the Russian Social Democratic party split between Bolsheviks and Mensheviks. The hatred of one group for the other is intense. Among the leaders of the Social Democrats are David Dubinsky and Walter Reuther and their political weapon is the Americans for Democratic Action (ADA).

They differ from the non-political careerists in that their trade unionism is definitely based on political concepts and they relate themselves internationally to similar labor movements in other countries, as for example, the British Labour party. They spend huge sums of money fighting communism not only in the United States but in foreign countries. For instance, through the influence of David Dubinsky, Jay Lovestone, a former Communist, and Irving Brown, a Socialist, they support and, in a measure, direct anti-Communist activities in European countries.

The racketeers and Communists in trade unionism are, of course, obvious and obnoxious. Efforts to reduce the influence of these two groups have not been altogether successful, the best example of the racketeers being the Longshoremen's Union in New York and the best example of a Communist-dominated union being the UE (United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers of America). It must be said that the law, politicians, and management are not guiltless in the strength of both the racketeers and the Communists and the sooner the racketeers and Communists are eliminated from American trade unionism, the stronger and more respected all unions will be.

This is written in anticipation of further discussion of this subject whenever the new labor law will be before Congress for consideration.

Motives In Berlin

Tactics of Foreign Minister Molotov at Berlin indicate that Moscow really places unusual importance on its demand for a five-power conference to which the Western nations would admit Communist China as an acknowledged great power. These tactics have inspired search for motive.

Are the Soviet leaders so much concerned with boosting the prestige of the Peiping regime that they are willing to risk blame for obstructing the current meeting? Or, are they more interested in convincing Peiping that its best interests are served by acceptance of Moscow's leadership?

The surprise resolution for discussion of armaments reduction is directed to the same end—an international meeting on Soviet initiative to which Red China would be a party. There is no certainty where this would leave President Eisenhower's atomic proposal before the United Nations.

Why is Mr. Molotov so intent on forcing a five-power meeting? A forum for discussion of Asian problems with Peiping present has all along been available in the projected Korean conference. The West has held out the prospect that, after a Korean settlement, the delegates could move on to problems like that of Indo-China.

But as it has been proposed to set this meeting up, Red China's would be a dominant role, whereas the Soviet Union's would be secondary. Peiping might get the idea that it could be the bigger brother in the Communist partnership.

What Molotov refuses to acknowledge is the necessity of meeting the challenge repeatedly laid down by President Eisenhower and by Secretary Dulles—that the Soviet Union evidence its desire for peace by definite steps toward that goal instead of merely talking about it.

It would be simple to end the obstruction to a Korean parley. It would be easy to free Austria from wartime occupation. These are steps that would ease world tensions immediately and the transition from cold war to cold peace would be on.

Quiet In Korea

It is unnaturally quiet in Korea. The prisoner issue has been settled, once and for all, by the release of all former Communist troops, and by the disappearance behind the iron curtain of 21 American and several hundred South Korean troops.

While the U.N. has entered a formal protest about prisoners captured by the Reds who, evidence indicates, are still being held in violation of the armistice agreement, the Reds have ignored it.

Meanwhile, the Communists intermittently propose a resumption of negotiations to arrange a political conference. The offer is never made in good faith. Though the United States has insisted that the Reds withdraw insults before talks can be resumed, the Reds make no such offer.

Resumption of talks without such retraction would mean that the Red negotiators would again use the sessions for diatribes, without serious attempts to arrange for a political conference.

The suggestion that they cannot withdraw their insults without losing face is untenable. American representative Arthur Dean was careful to leave the door open to face-saving. He retorted to the Communist charge of American "perfidy" with a few homely truths about his opposite numbers. If the Reds really wanted to resume negotiations, they could save face by offering to withdraw their charge if Dean would withdraw his counter-charges. And Dean, having won his point, could make that concession.

The Reds are playing their old game. They do not want to resume the talks. But by occasionally making an unacceptable offer, they seek for propaganda purposes to make it appear that it is the United States that is unwilling to negotiate.

Tender Spanish Feelings

Air Secretary Talbott probably wishes he could give Spain back to the Spaniards and forget about it, for if the secretary can be said to have a jinx, Spain is it.

Last November at a press conference in Madrid Mr. Talbott said, in answer to a query, the United States would stock the proposed Spanish military bases with atomic weapons. Later he had to take the statement back when both his boss, Defense Secretary Wilson, and the State Department called him on it.

The other day at a Pentagon press conference he was asked whether the pact between Spain and this country provided for U. S. use of Spanish naval and air bases in wartime, too. Mr. Talbott asked bluntly: "Who's to stop us?" The inference was that this country would use the bases whether or not Spain was involved in any war. Later he appeared to have thought over the full significance of what he had said and sent a "clarifying" statement down to the Pentagon press room.

This said that the Air Force had every intention of living up to agreements made in its behalf between the United States and foreign countries in which this country has bases. He added that the Spanish-U. S. agreement provides that the "time and manner of wartime utilization of said areas and facilities will be as mutually agreed upon."

Perhaps the most fitting commentary on the whole business was provided by Mr. Wilson in the same conference. Mused Mr. Wilson: "This business of having bases in another man's country is a delicate one . . . unless you have the other man's good will you have nothing."

The Atom Around Home

From one of industry's great research laboratories comes word of a tiny atomic battery that may revolutionize energy production. This achievement by scientists at the lab of the Radio Corporation of America involves a method for converting atomic energy directly into small, usable quantities of electric power.

Future of the principle, a major advance on the road to human ease, is described as "glowing." Ultimately, according to David Sarnoff, RCA board chairman, it may provide cheap and lasting electric power for household equipment and appliances.

The announcement is supplemented by publication in the professional press of details of construction of the battery, itself an example of free dissemination of scientific knowledge. As such, it is a working demonstration of the manner in which American industry is proceeding in developing nuclear power for peacetime purposes.

The white cells are manufactured in the bone marrow, spleen, lymph glands, and liver. In leukemia, the main disease in which the white cells are involved, these organs go on a rampage and produce 10 to 50 times the normal number. No one knows why. Although leukemia frequently is referred to as cancer of the blood, the term is erroneous as the blood itself is not involved.

There are several forms of leukemia and each is named after the type of white cell that predominates. Thus, in lymphatic leukemia, the majority of cells are lymphocytes. The chronic varieties are more prevalent after the age of 35, whereas acute leukemia favors children. The condition is fatal within two to four months, but during the past two years, the life expectancy of these youngsters has been increased an additional six months or more. This has been possible through the administration of ACTH, cortisone, or the anti-metabolite products, aminopterin and 6-mercaptopurine. Remedies also are available for chronic leukemia including the nitrogen mustardlike compound, TEM, as well as ACTH, cortisone, P32, and total body radiation. The exact treatment depends upon the form of the disease and whether it is in an early or a late stage.

What's Behind Current Recession: Big Chunk Out Of Government Orders Must Be Replaced Somehow; Gouzenko Believes Russia's Secret Code Unbreakable

WASHINGTON—Though the nation's business is everyone's business, the testimony now being given before the Joint Congressional Committee on the Economic Report is in secret. A parade of economists, officials and unofficial, beginning with the President's top economic adviser, Dr. Arthur Burns, is trying to spell out what's behind the current recession.

Though they haven't said it in these exact words, many of the economists agree that the basic reason boils down to this:

When you take thirty billions in defense orders out of the economy, you have to replace it with something else.

Spelled out in more detailed terms, the 1952 budget called for $60,000,000,000 of new defense equipment. The 1955 budget calls for $30,900,000,000. This is basic hardware. This represents millions of dollars worth of steel, copper, aluminum, and all labor that goes with it.

And when you take that big a chunk out of government orders, you have to replace it with schools, housing, bridges, roads, or something else. Otherwise the economy is bound to slump.

Advisers Warned Ike

Inside fact is that Dr. Burns has been giving warnings for some time that business was slipping. Burns is the ex-Columbia professor, born in Austria, who was named chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers last spring after the White House at first said Ike didn't need any economic advisers.

The President, however, was reminded that it was up to Congress, not to him, to decide whether he needed economic advisers, and that Congress required him, by law, to have three advisers for the purpose of helping him head off depression.

Ike thereupon acquiesced, appointed Dr. Burns, but didn't get around to appointing the other two economists required by law until late last summer.

Now the council is working overtime.

They do not agree with Ray Henle, commentator for big Republican contributor Joe Pew and the Sun Oil Company that to warn of a business recession is Communist propaganda. On the contrary, they believe that to head off recession you have to examine the economic factors carefully, as they did in Ike's own economic message to Congress. Furthermore they do not agree with some of the hucksters immediately around the President that the way to prevent a recession is to repeat over and over again: "We cannot have a recession."

The present recession is probably nothing to worry about provided it isn't permitted to go any deeper. The best way to prevent it, they suggest privately, is to make sure that the axing of government spending is not too sudden and to replace defense spending with at least some peacetime spending.

Unbreakable Russian Code

One interesting thing Igor Gouzenko told me during my visits with him in Canada was that the secret Russian code is unbreakable.

This, he explained, is because a virtually different code is used for almost every sentence. This was also why the Russian embassy in Canada was completely brazen about sending the atomic secrets they stole in North America and even the names of some of their spies back to Moscow by cable.

Ability to break the secret code of a foreign nation, especially in wartime, is the next best thing to having a well-trained army and navy. And on at least one occasion, the secret code of the United States may have been stolen by the Soviet.

This was when the two British diplomats, McLean and Burgess, suddenly disappeared behind the iron curtain, taking with them various secrets of British-American diplomacy. While they had no access to the American code, they did have decoded copies of American diplomatic documents, which when matched with coded copies picked off the airwaves, might have led to breaking our code. That was why 50 couriers were immediately sent from Washington carrying a new code to 50 different embassies abroad immediately after McLean and Burgess slipped behind the iron curtain.

Jap Code Broken

During the war the United States broke the Japanese secret code almost at will. This was what led to American victory in the Battle of Midway, where the U. S. Navy, intercepting a Japanese message, learned that its fleet was converging near Midway for an all-out attack on the United States. Almost the entire U. S. fleet in the Pacific was immediately rushed to Midway, resulting in a victory which crippled the Japanese fleet for keeps.

A Chicago Tribune newsman aboard one of the American vessels almost revealed that we had the Japanese code by publishing the entire list of the Japanese fleet—which could only have been obtained by breaking their code. A grand jury was called to prosecute the Tribune, but dropped in the end, when the Japanese failed to realize the significance of the published list.

If Gouzenko is right— and having spent years handling Russian codes, he should know—that the Soviet code is unbreakable, it throws light on why our intelligence is so poor inside the Soviet.

On The Line

By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK—(INS)—The death of Emanuel H. Bloch, lawyer for Julius and Ethel Rosenberg, makes more difficult—if not impossible—this reporter's search for the person or persons who gave the word to Russia that the Rosenbergs were "safe" . . . that they would go to their deaths without a word of confession, without naming a single accomplice.

Bloch, a brilliant and articulate man in the courtroom, died under the cloud of disbarment proceedings brought against him for the tone of his funeral oration over the coffins of his clients. In that inflamed speech he charged that President Eisenhower, Attorney-General Brownell and J. Edgar Hoover were "murderers" of the Rosenbergs. A day or two before he had cried, "Today, I am ashamed I am an American."

Those last minute fireworks were in curious contrast to his earnest statement to Judge Irving Kaufman, the jury, U. S. Attorney (now judge) Irving Saypol and Saypol's staff immediately after the death verdict had been handed down. He said then in effect that he and his clients had been treated fairly by all concerned.

But some days later, with the Rosenbergs now in the death house at Sing Sing, "the word" was passed. By whom we may never know. On signal, the Communist press of the world set up a cry of "Save the Rosenbergs." That same press had not deemed the couple worthy enough or "safe" enough to cover their trial. Bloch, so recently before the pleasantly resigned attorney in a losing case, became a leading spokesman for the "Save the Rosenbergs" movement and an ardent champion of their cause in a long series of legal appeals.

The wheels of a colossal propaganda machine had begun to turn. One can hardly hazard a guess as to what it cost that section of the Kremlin which handles such worldwide programs. Suffice it to say that its scope was such that in time the White House heard expressions of concern from spiritual leaders as militantly anti-Communist as Pius XII. More than 700,000 French workers signed petitions in the Rosenbergs' behalf. There were demonstrations in African jungles.

This tremendous propaganda effort would have boomeranged thunderously if the Rosenbergs had talked. If they had turned to the handful of us who sat in the death chamber that evening at Sing Sing and saw them strapped into the ghastly chair, and had blurted acknowledgement of their role in the Soviet spying apparatus, it would have been the most disastrous propaganda setback Russia ever suffered. It might have been one from which Russia would never have recovered, for in the eyes of the wavering world it could never be believed again.

There was an additional danger in this huge propaganda gamble with the Rosenbergs. If Bloch was successful and did win a reversal of Judge Kaufman's decision, or persuade the judge himself to make his sentence less severe, the Rosenbergs would now be serving the first of perhaps 30 years in jail. Plainly, that would have been risky. They were bitterly cold people, these two, but the constant rub of children and relatives from the outside world might in time have coaxed them to admit the crushing weight of evidence produced against them, and identify co-conspirators, in the hope of easing the sentence.

It was plain, it seemed to me, that Russia wanted (yes, demanded) that the Rosenbergs die, but die as dramatically as martyrs. But, more important, it was absolutely necessary that they die silent. Who gave that assurance? Why was the Communist world silent about them one day and confidently raucous the next? What conceivably were the guarantees against a sudden, human collapse of their iron will as the arms of the electric chair reached out? Did anyone hold them in line?

In the warden's office before he took us to the death house several phones stood ready to flash the word of a confession to Brownell, the judge and others. FBI men, matrons, guards had been alerted to be ready in case the Rosenbergs wanted to talk. But they walked resolutely and tight-lipped to the chair. Bloch, who saw much more of them than anybody else during their long stay in prison, was not there at the end. Now he, too, is gone, and with him what could have been light to shed upon a baffling case of domination of two human beings by self-will or outside forces beyond comprehension in a democracy.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — Thought control and the punishing of a man for his previous affiliations or economic beliefs seems to be a bad thing when a "liberal" is the victim, but praiseworthy when the so-called "liberals" themselves want to keep a man out of the government of the United States.

The latest example is the action of the six Democratic members of the Senate Labor Committee who formally recommended in their report to the Senate that the nomination of Albert C. Beeson, as a member of the National Labor Relations Board, be rejected. The report says frankly that the six Democratic senators "do not question Mr. Beeson's candor, honesty or integrity," but that they do question whether his experience as a spokesman for management in collective bargaining in the past would "color" his judgment.

Discriminatory Policy

If adopted as a policy in the Senate, it would mean that no man hereafter could work for the labor board who had ever served a trade union or the management side. It would mean that an American citizen would be disqualified from holding office and would be adjudged to be devoid of "impartiality" just because he once worked on the management or labor side.

Such a rule would have disqualified Cy Ching, who recently retired as head of the U. S. Conciliation Service and who, prior to his service in the government, was employed as head of the industrial relations division of the U. S. Rubber Company. Yet he did win the confidence of both labor and management.

Carried to its logical conclusion, this discriminatory policy would mean that labor mediators, arbitrators and other personnel could never qualify for service in the government in connection with the labor bureaus and boards of the government if they previously worked for management or labor. It is the most dangerous kind of persecution, and the so-called "liberals" who are sponsoring it are plainly violating the basic principle of fairness in their recommendation.

It was the late President Roosevelt — the hero of the "liberals"— who first proclaimed the doctrine of thought control in respect to appointees for government boards and commissions. In 1933, Mr. Roosevelt wrote a letter removing William E. Humphrey from the Federal Trade Commission because, as Mr. Roosevelt expressed it, he was sure that Mr. Humphrey's decisions "would not go along with" the mind of the President.

This case was carried to the Supreme Court of the United States on a claim for back salary, and, by a unanimous decision, the court held in May 1935 that Mr. Humphrey was a member of a "quasi-judicial" commission and therefore could not be removed for any such reason.

The National Labor Relations Board is a "quasi-judicial" commission. In selecting members for it, as is the case with judges on a court, it is a serious thing to say that a man cannot be impartial after he takes the oath to perform judicial duties.

"Liberals" Playing Politics

Yet one of the most noted of all "liberals," the late Senator George Norris of Nebraska, an independent, made a bitter fight against the confirmation of Charles Evans Hughes to be chief justice because of a charge that Mr. Hughes had accepted fees as a corporation lawyer. Mr. Norris lived to retract his charge and to commend the career of Mr. Hughes.

The same kind of attack was made on Judge John J. Parker, of the U. S. Court of Appeals, who was nominated by President Hoover to the Supreme Court of the United States. Mr. Parker's confirmation was beaten by the shameful tactics of labor-union lobbyists who charged that he once had sided against labor in an important case before the federal courts. Today he is acclaimed far and wide — even by labor unions — as a truly "liberal" judge. But he never got the appointment as Supreme Court justice that he deserved.

When a man of good character, honesty and integrity comes up for confirmation by the Senate and his previous employment gives him experience in the subject matter, it would seem that all groups would be eager to give him a chance to serve. But the "liberals" in the Senate are playing politics, and they don't seem to mind the punitive tactics of "thought control" when they are doing the punishing.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Our Labor Unions

Back in the early days of the New Deal, it made sense to quarrel over the nature and purpose of labor unions. I once wrote a book on the subject, which is now out of print, but which warned of the dangers of new trends in trade unionism.

In 1954, the labor unions are in the United States to stay and a system of operations has been established which has the sanction of congressional action and judicial decision. It serves no valid purpose to oppose trade unionism per se, although it is possible to say that those who opposed Prohibition kept up their opposition until a constitutional amendment was passed abolishing that abomination.

It is not likely that any opposition to labor unions will lead to a change in the social institutions arising from their existence. American industry has adjusted to the necessity of some form of collective bargaining under the legal arrangements first stipulated in the Wagner Law and now in the Taft-Hartley Law. The proposed revision of the Taft-Hartley Law, as advocated by President Eisenhower, in no manner alters the relationship between management and the unions. It is probably that management desires no radical alteration in those relationships, as was evident in a series of private conferences last spring and summer between lawyers representing industry and the unions. In fact, most industries, either separately or in their trade associations, have established permanent labor law departments as a result of the vast changes in management-union problems which have emerged and taken form since 1935.

Whether a union belongs to the AFL, the CIO, to John L. Lewis's separate enterprise or to an independent union, it is being managed by professionals whose principal business is to operate labor unions. These professionals may be divided into four categories:

1. Careerists;
2. The old school of Social Democrats;
3. Racketeers;
4. Communists.

The careerists are professionals who operate unions as a way of life and are concerned with the success of their unions. Such men as John L. Lewis and George Meany represent this type of labor leader and generally serve their unions well. They are usually good citizens and are honest as most men are in a competitive work. They subordinate all questions to the interests of their particular union. More and more unions are falling into the hands of these careerists and on the whole, this is as it should be.

The old line Social Democrats as a small but powerful remnant of pre-Wagner Law trade unionism, when the struggle between trade unions and management was generally difficult, and the unions not very successful. These leaders are ideologically Socialist, but they are anti-Communists. The battle between Socialists and Communists is often more violent than most of us realize. It has been continuous since 1903 at London, when the Russian Social Democratic party split between Bolsheviks and Mensheviks. The hatred of one group for the other is intense. Among the leaders of the Social Democrats are David Dubinsky and Walter Reuther and their political weapon is the Americans for Democratic Action (ADA).

They differ from the non-political careerists in that their trade unionism is definitely based on political concepts and they relate themselves internationally to similar labor movements in other countries, as for example, the British Labour party. They spend huge sums of money fighting communism not only in the United States but in foreign countries. For instance, through the influence of David Dubinsky, Jay Lovestone, a former Communist, and Irving Brown, a Socialist, they support and, in a measure, direct anti-Communist activities in European countries.

The racketeers and Communists in trade unionism are, of course, obvious and obnoxious. Efforts to reduce the influence of these two groups have not been altogether successful, the best example of the racketeers being the Longshoremen's Union in New York and the best example of a Communist-dominated union being the UE (United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers of America). It must be said that the law, politicians, and management are not guiltless in the strength of both the racketeers and the Communists and the sooner the racketeers and Communists are eliminated from American trade unionism, the stronger and more respected all unions will be.

This is written in anticipation of further discussion of this subject whenever the new labor law will be before Congress for consideration.

State Opposes Three Motions By D'Alesandro

BALTIMORE, Feb. 2 (AP)—State's Attorney Anselm Sodaro filed replies today to motions seeking dismissal of a perjury indictment against the Baltimore mayor's son, Franklin Roosevelt D'Alesandro.

The 20-year-old D'Alesandro is charged with lying under oath at his trial last November when he said he had never before seen a 13-year-old girl he was accused of seducing.

Yesterday, his attorney, former Judge Joseph W. Sherbow, asked for dismissal of the perjury charge, claiming the issues brought up were disposed of when the youth was found innocent of statutory rape.

Young D'Alesandro was the only one of 20 tried on morals charges involving the 13-year-old girl and her 11-year-old cousin to be found innocent.

Sodaro replied briefly to Sherbow's motion today, stating the "reasons alleged ... are legally insufficient."

Another defense motion to inspect Grand Jury records was opposed with the argument such action would be improper. A third defense motion asking details of the charges was opposed on a contention the defense was trying to find out about evidence which need not be disclosed in advance of the trial.

The State complied with a motion asking for names of witnesses to be heard, listing the two girls and three defendants who have already testified that D'Alesandro was in the presence of the girls he says he never saw before.

Water Suppliers Ordered To Up Sanitary Standards

BALTIMORE, Feb. 1 (AP) — The State Board of Health announced today that three suppliers of water in Maryland have been ordered to take steps to meet state sanitation requirements within 30 days.

The Mechanicstown Water Co. was told the water it serves to Thurmont area residents is not "of satisfactory sanitary quality" due to "incompetent supervision or inefficient operation."

It was ordered to "secure results" in line with state sanitation requirements within 30 days.

The town of Secretary in Dorchester County was also ordered was ordered to secure chlorinating its water supply in a summons identical to the one served on the firm servicing Thurmont.

The order was delivered to Secretary Mayor Paul T. Birch.

The firm of Hopkins and Wayson was ordered to secure chlorinating equipment for its plants which supply water to the residents of the Gwynn Park Subdivision and Morningside, near Washington.

The order was served on Morgan W. Wayson, the State Board said. The firm was given 30 days in which to get the equipment.

Judge Rules Parking Tickets Exempt From Statute Of Limitations

BALTIMORE, Feb. 2 (AP)—Magistrate Wilfred McQuaid ruled yesterday the statute of limitations forbidding prosecution of some offenses any later than a year after the violation does not apply to parking tickets.

It was indicated an appeal on what the judge termed "an interesting question" might be taken to a higher court.

The decision came after Attorney Bernard O'Sullivan, representing George H. Kahl, operator of a Baltimore sheet metal firm, pleaded not guilty to 10 old parking violation charges.

O'Sullivan, quoted from the statute of limitations, saying, "No prosecution or suit shall be commenced for any fine, penalty of forfeiture, or any misdemeanor except those punishable by confinement in the penitentiary unless within one year from the time of the offense committed."

Magistrate McQuaid said he had always considered the prosecution in parking cases started when the ticket was issued.

Martinsburg Gas Rate Increase Authorized

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Feb. 2 (AP)—The Public Service Commission authorized the Martinsburg Gas & Heating Co. today to adopt new rates designed to increase annual income by $8,500.

The company wants to increase the price of manufactured gas until it can convert to natural gas.

Martinsburg Gas noted in its original petition that it operated at a net loss of $11,693 during the first 11 months of 1953, and at a net loss of $3,000 during 1952.

It explained that it had petitioned the Federal Power Commission for authority to furnish natural gas to its customers instead of manufactured gas.

Judge Rules Parking Tickets Exempt From Statute Of Limitations

BALTIMORE, Feb. 2 (AP)—Magistrate Wilfred McQuaid ruled yesterday the statute of limitations forbidding prosecution of some offenses any later than a year after the violation does not apply to parking tickets.

It was indicated an appeal on what the judge termed "an interesting question" might be taken to a higher court.

The decision came after Attorney Bernard O'Sullivan, representing George H. Kahl, operator of a Baltimore sheet metal firm, pleaded not guilty to 10 old parking violation charges.

O'Sullivan, quoted from the statute of limitations, saying, "No prosecution or suit shall be commenced for any fine, penalty of forfeiture, or any misdemeanor except those punishable by confinement in the penitentiary unless within one year from the time of the offense committed."

Magistrate McQuaid said he had always considered the prosecution in parking cases started when the ticket was issued.

Smouse, Mrs. William Keller Jr., Mrs. Melissa D. Williams, Miss Genevieve Wolf, Mrs. Donald Long, Mrs. Raymond Kammauff and Mrs. Hugh Kilroy, North Cumberland Homemakers Club.

Roll call was answered with important accessories, either personal or for the home. Mrs. Screen read a story of St. Valentine's Day and Mrs. Douglas Smith reported 19 books had been read during the month. She suggested members read, "U. S. Forty," "Desiree," "Too Late The Phalarope," and "Angel Unawares." In the recognition of Lincoln's birthday she read Lincoln's Gettysburg Address with Mrs. Charles Long playing a piano accompaniment. Routine reports were given by Miss Mary Bringle and Mrs. Dayton Murphy.

Announcement was made that Mrs. Orville Boughton is improving and has returned home from the hospital; and of the broadcasts by the homemakers. Mrs. Screen reported on the County Council meeting last week.

Mrs. Cook spoke of the pageant, "America Sings," being given by the homemakers in March, and assigned the LaVale group to be in the Dixie part of the program. Members who attended Rural Women's Short Course and were in the Cowboy part of the pageant will again take that part, but also act as a committee to recruit women if they are needed in the club's part.

A report on the sewing meeting was given by Mrs. Guy Brengle, who attended it with Mrs. Findlay Thompson. She also offered to help the members with their sewing. Mrs. John Beckman gave the Civil Defense report; and Mrs. Douglas Smith spoke of the new synthetic rugs, stressing the wearing quality, the fact the footprints are not seen and ink can be washed off. She also showed samples of products used in the rugs. Mrs. Shirley Stimmler gave the story of the closing hymn, "As with Gladness Men of Old."

A rising vote of thanks was given to Mrs. Bertha Simpson, Nutrition chairman, and her committee, Mrs. Herbert Fleckenstein, Mrs. William Barnes, Mrs. Roy George and Mrs. George Kemp for the dinner.

The regular flower meeting has been postponed until April and Miss Reitz will give a demonstration at the March meeting. Her topic will be "Color in Your Home."

Fifty-eight members and guests attended.

Shirley Cosner Is Bride Of Richard R. Ponikvar

Miss Shirley Cosner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Cosner, Parsons, W. Va., became the bride of Richard Roy Ponikvar, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Ponikvar, Thomas, W. Va., in a double ring ceremony, solemnized in St. Thomas Catholic Church, Thomas, with Rev. Francis A. Spillar officiating and reading the nuptial mass.

The altar was decorated with bouquets of white gladioli and lighted with white tapers.

Miss Beverly Ponikvar, Pittsburgh, sister of the bridegroom, was the bride's maid of honor, while Edward Ponikvar of Akron, Ohio, served as his brother's best man. Howard Cosner, Thomas, was an usher.

Miss Mary Del Signore, Thomas, played the traditional wedding marches and also accompanied the vocalists. Miss Mary Ann Cangley sang "The Rosary," and Carmen Monda sang "Ave Maria." Miss Cangley and Mr. Monda sang "Ah, Whence to Me the Bliss," and "O Sancitissima."

The bride wore a white ballerina-length gown of satin with lace fitted bodice fashioned with a scalloped neckline and long fitted sleeves tapering to a lily point over the hand. Her fingertip-length veil of illusion was caught at the crown by a Juliette cap. She wore a single strand of pearls, a gift of the bridegroom, and carried a bouquet of white carnations.

Her maid of honor wore a yellow ballerina-length gown of taffeta with a yellow net and velvet hat trimmed with flowers.

Mrs. Ponikvar is a graduate of Philippi High School, class of 1953, and was employed by the Federal Bureau of Investigation in Washington until her marriage.

Mr. Ponikvar, a graduate of Thomas High School, class of 1950, served with the United States Army, spending 26 months on Korean duty. He now is employed by Western Electric Company, Charleston.

A dinner and reception was held at the home of the bridegroom's parents following the ceremony, for members of the immediate families and for the bridal party. A tiered wedding cake, topped with a miniature bride and bridegroom, centered the bride's table.

Mrs. W. Arthur Hollar, 8 Browning Street, is a patient in Memorial Hospital.

Despite winter, you can refresh your complexion and give it lovely, petal-soft smoothness!

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

In the quest for a lift in your life, let's consider one of the most advantageous aspects of a mid-winter vacation: the rejuvenation of the complexion that springs from a sojourn in the semi-tropics.

Contrary to what is usually believed, this benefit is not the result of getting out into the sun. The moisture in the warm atmosphere is what renews the petal quality of the skin. In the dehydrated air of most artificially-heated homes, apartments and buildings, an appalling toll is taken of skin beauty.

Start immediately to counter the drying quality of both cold, wind and dry air with a campaign that will alleviate the rough, scaly, papery look of your skin and leave it smooth, soft, and free of tightness. Here's how:

1. Use cleansing cream at least once a day and whenever you renew your make-up. Use a type made especially for dry skins and tissue it off with the gentlest touch.

2. Following each use of cleansing cream, pat on a skin lotion to help prevent sagging pores. Apply the lotion with a piece of cotton dipped in water. A pleasing tingling sensation should result, but a burning one indicates that too much lotion has been used.

3. Once a day, preferably on retiring, wash your face with mild soap and water. When the skin is tight, rough or sensitive, avoid the use of a washcloth and apply suds with your fingertips, using a gentle rotary motion.

4. Rinse away all soap with lukewarm water. During this time of year, avoid using cold water on dry skin. It affects the pores by preventing the natural rising of oil to the skin's surface where it is needed for beautification through lubrication.

5. Before retiring, always pat on a rich emollient cream, using feathery upward strokes made with the full length of the fingers. Twenty minutes after application, you can tissue off any residue.

6. During the day, protect your skin with a foundation that guards against both the winter elements and hot, dry air.

After just a week of this care, neglected skins look younger and take make-up with a far more flattering finish! As your looks improve, watch your spirits soar!

Tomorrow: Mid-winter pick-up in interests!

City To Borrow For Sewer Fund

Finance Commissioner William V. Keegan was authorized on Monday by the Mayor and Council to borrow up to $15,000 to be placed in a revolving fund for use in financing sewage work.

The money, needed chiefly to finance a new sewer line on Bedford Street, is covered by existing sewer liens, and will be replaced as the liens are paid on recently constructed sewer lines, such as those installed to make use of the Bedford Road sewage ejector station.

The Engineering Department reported three building permits were issued in January, including two new constructions and one addition, all valued at $13,650.

The Smoke Abatement Department reported 17 observations made on B & O engines in December resulted in 16 clear stacks and one caution. No observations were made on the Western Maryland. One complaint was made to the Smoke Abatement office.

Dispatchments on the B & O in December included 836 steam and 5,794 Diesel units, and on the Western Maryland, 666 steam and 1,252 Diesel units.

Charles F. Heller airport superintendent, said all doors have been hung on 15 hangers, and that the repair job is completed, except for fittings and painting.

Motor Being Installed On Park Pump

An electric motor is being installed on the pump that fills the standpipe in Constitution Park, William J. Edwards, commissioner of water and electric light, announced yesterday.

The 500,000-gallon tank stores water to supply Fort Hill High School, Memorial Hospital and homes in the Johnson Heights area, he noted.

The electric pump replaces a gasoline motor, which for many years has been bothering the residents of the Fort Hill Reservoir pumphouse section.

The old 100-horsepower gas motor was used each morning and evening to fill the standpipe and the roar of the motor disturbed the residents of the pumphouse area for many years.

The Water Department, Commissioner Edwards reported, went to much work in trying to muffle the motor exhaust, going to the extent of piping the exhaust into a manhole.

This new 50-horsepower motor will operate the 18-inch centrifugal pump at 1,000 revolutions per minute, the commissioner stated.

Yesterday, the Potomac Edison Company put in a line to supply the motor with current.

Also the Water Department is filling the North End tank for final tests. A fire engine is being used to pump the 75,000 gallons into it. George M. Hitchcock, superintendent of the Evitts Creek Water Company, said he is finishing up the hookup installation blueprints for the pumphouse at the new tank.

Area Driver Fined On Reckless Charge

A Frostburg man who pleaded guilty to falling asleep at the wheel of his car and crashing into two parked cars Sunday morning, was fined $5 on a charge of reckless driving by Trial Magistrate Fred Crowe Monday.

Frostburg Police Officer John Kerr said Edwin Francis Garlitz, RD 2, Frostburg, was driving an auto west at 2:45 a. m. when he smashed into the autos of Darrell G. Zellers, 164 East Main Street, and George McLuckie, 85 Frost Avenue.

Officer Kerr estimated damage to the two cars at about $600.

More than 80 different makes of automobiles were produced in Cleveland in the early days of the industry.

Liquor Board Suspends Cotton Club's Beer License

The beer and wine license of the Cotton Club in Frostburg was ordered suspended following a brief hearing before the Board of License Commissioners for Allegany County yesterday.

Eleanor Jackson, operator of the place, was convicted in Circuit Court several weeks ago and fined $500. She was fined a similar amount in another case more than a year ago. The fines were assessed for sale of beer on Sundays.

The suspension goes into effect Friday and continues to the end of the present license period on April 30. Walter C. Capper, board chairman, said the decision on whether or not a renewal of the beer permit is to be issued to the Cotton Club will be made when new licenses are issued by the board.

Reports Disturbances

No decision was made in the case before the board against Joseph Spinetta, operator of Lee's Tavern at 60 North Mechanic Street. This was brought before the board upon complaint of Police Chief R. E. Flynn of the Police Department. He had informed the board that many disturbances had occurred at the tavern.

City police officers testified today that they were called to the tavern on eight or nine occasions since last May as a result of disturbances. It was admitted by the officers that only on one occasion were the disturbances inside the establishment. The others allegedly took place on the street outside or in the immediate vicinity.

Spinetta testified that he had attempted to operate his place as well as he could in reference to order. He pointed out that since several places on Front Street had closed some of this trade had gravitated to his tavern.

Refused To Sell

Spinetta said he refused to sell beer to any person who was visibly intoxicated and when any arguments would start he stopped the disturbance if he could. On occasion, when the arguments would get out of hand he called the police station, which is located only a block away.

In his defense argument, Harold E. Naughton, attorney for Spinetta, pointed out that Lee's Tavern was not the only place in downtown Cumberland or in the Mechanic Street area where trouble has occurred.

He pointed to the lone instance that a fight had taken place in the tavern and reminded the board that Spinetta had called police on that occasion.

"That's what he is required to do under the liquor laws and it is the Police Department's duty to give assistance," Naughton said. "Of course, it may break up a checker game at headquarters when such calls come in," Naughton remarked with a smile.

It was also brought out that inspectors for the board had visited the tavern on 20 or 30 occasions, but had always found good order.

John M. Robb was attorney for the board in presenting the case against the tavern. He said he had brought out the evidence by city police officers in connection with the case and as the matter was up to the discretion of the board to decide he would not make any recommendation on the verdict.

Lt. William E. McProuty Promoted By USMCR

Major Patsy Algieri, commanding officer of Cumberland's Sixth USMCR, yesterday announced that Second Lt. William E. McProuty, husband of Edrie O. McProuty, Braddock Road, has been promoted to the temporary rank of first lieutenant in the Marine Corps Reserve. He enlisted in the reserve in December 1943.

McProuty after serving as an enlisted man received his commission as lieutenant in May 1951. During World War II, McProuty served with the Fourth Marine Division in the Marshall Islands and with the First Marine Division on Okinawa.

McProuty graduated from Concord College, Athens, W. Va. While attending college he participated in football, basketball and baseball. He teaches at Fort Hill High School.

Late Banking Hours A Success

Cumberland's banks, open at night Monday for the first time, reported the experiment a success.

The five, Commercial Savings, Cumberland Savings, First National, Second National and Liberty Trust Company, reported brisk business during the first hour of the 7 to 9 p. m. opening with a tapering off during the last hour.

For example, one bank "clocked" 299 customers during the evening, 200 of them during the first hour. Another kept score on only its new accounts and reported 22 in addition to scores of regulars.

The late bank hours which coincide with the late shopping hours offered by the city's business men, is being undertaken on a "trial basis."

John H. Mosner, president of the Cumberland Clearing House, said they will continue to be open from 7 to 9 p. m. each Monday.

All participating banks are members of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation.

Building, Loan Group Statement Is Filed

The financial statement of the Home Building and Loan Association, Inc., shows assets of $271,292.86.

Included are first mortgage loans of $259,510.53, U. S. bonds, $5,000 and cash of $8,774.27.

Savings shares total $246,440.64 and the reserve for contingencies is $22,182.09.

In a letter members have been informed the firm has grown each year since its organization in 1940 and has always paid a four per cent dividend on share accounts.

School Drops Plans For Mechanics Class

When only three veterans of the Korean War reported on Monday for the scheduled opening of class, the Allegany Trade School dropped its plans for a full-time day class in auto mechanics, according to J. D. Lonnholm, supervisor of vocation, industrial and adult education in the county schools.

Originally, it had been planned to start the class January 25 but the opening was deferred one week when only five students responded. At least 10 are needed to justify a class. Ira E. Northcraft, school registrar, had hoped to have at least that many enrolled by Monday.

Lonnholm explained that about 35 veterans of the Korean War had indicated interest in the daytime class in the past several months. The school will continue to register those interested in such training and another effort to start a class may be made in another few months.

Republicans Plan To Back Utility Bill In Assembly

Legislative Staff Named By Kimble

A utility bill considered important by the state administration will be introduced during the 30-day session of General Assembly that starts today by State Senator Robert B. Kimble of this county.

Predicts Big Fight

He predicted a "terrific fight" when he presents a bill that will amend the state utility law that would enable the state to charge against the utilities the cost of rate structure investigation.

Sen. Kimble explained that there is only $50,000 of the taxpayers' money allocated to hire technical and legal talent to represent the peoples counsel's to the Maryland Public Service Commission whenever the utilities ask for a rate increase.

He pointed out that in the past the utilities came to the hearings on rate structure with an impressive total of legal and technical information. The state and its peoples counsel is hampered by a lack of funds in investigation of the investments of the utilities properties, he said.

Sen. Kimble said the administration had planned to introduce another bill on utility rates but after he and other leaders conferred with the governor last week it was decided to postpone any action.

Staff Is Selected

A legislative staff for the 30-day session of the General Assembly has been selected by Senator Kimble.

He announced that his legislative assistant will be Miss Harriet Eliason, 655 Washington Street, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. H. E. Eliason.

During the 1953 General Assembly Sen. Kimble's assistant was Donald W. Mason, this city. As minority floor leader in the Senate, Sen. Kimble is allowed an assistant to handle many of the duties that fall upon his office.

Other Aides Picked

Miss Eliason is a university graduate in government research, Sen. Kimble stated.

His secretaries will be Miss Joan McKenzie and Miss Elizabeth Faye Shimer, both of Luke.

The senator said he will keep on file here for Allegany County residents all of the bills introduced at the legislature. This will be located in Trial Magistrates Court, in the County Building, Union Street.

Sen. Kimble commented on House Bill 687 which was passed by the 1953 legislature and was vetoed by Gov. McKeldin. Vetoed bills are the first to be taken up at the short session.

Help For County

This bill would increase the state liquor excise tax from $1.25 a gallon to $1.50 and through a re-allocation the 23 counties of Maryland would get a share of this revenue. Allegany County's share would run between $60,000 and $65,000.

Sen. Kimble said as minority party floor leader his job will be to represent the Republican administration and lead the fight to sustain the veto.

Westernport Group Protests Assessments

Three property owners in Westernport today protested to the Allegany County Board of Commissioners the increase in their assessments.

Horace P. Whitworth Jr., attorney for the property owners, presented the tax bills received by the protestants and said they wish to have the cases reviewed.

Leonardo Simonelli, who owns a property on Railroad Street, protested against an increase in his assessment to $4,425. Adah L. Sapiro, of Piedmont, who owns a property on Maryland Avenue in Westernport, protested the assessment of $5,350 against her and Russell Ott, 131 Wood Street, Westernport, protested his assessment. No amount was given in the Otto case.

Whitworth said a double residence was sold at public auction in Westernport last week for less than the amount of the assessment. The commissioners also stated that another property was sold at twice the assessed valuation of the property in question.

The Westernport and Luke areas were reassessed last year by the Assessing Department of the county and officials said the same valuation rule was followed as in other areas of the county. For many years the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company owned the majority of homes in Luke. A few years ago the company sold these homes to their employes and they were reassessed last year.

Jury Recommends No Further Action In Two Fatalities

BEDFORD—A Bedford County coroner's jury has recommended that no one be taken for further action in connection with the traffic deaths of two area men, including a Kelly-Springfield Tire Company worker.

The jurors, at an inquest, produced similar finding in the cases of:

Raymond R. Growden, of Centerville, who was killed December 12 on Route 220 south of Centerville, and Harry Amick, of Bedford, who died following a one-car crash December 20 on Route 30 just west of Bedford. Growden worked at the Kelly plant in Cumberland.

Witnesses in the Growden inquest were Mark Kissamore, RD 1, Magadore, Ohio, and his son, Owen Kissamore; Mr. and Mrs. James Fungaroli of Bedford and a State Trooper, J. Petyak.

Growden died as the result of a collision of his car with a truck driven by the elder Kissamore. Kissamore's son was a passenger in the vehicle at the time.

Officer Petyak, who investigated the crash, reconstructed the accidents for the jurors.

Republicans Plan To Back Utility Bill In Assembly

Legislative Staff Named By Kimble

A utility bill considered important by the state administration will be introduced during the 30-day session of General Assembly that starts today by State Senator Robert B. Kimble of this county.

Predicts Big Fight

He predicted a "terrific fight" when he presents a bill that will amend the state utility law that would enable the state to charge against the utilities the cost of rate structure investigation.

Sen. Kimble explained that there is only $50,000 of the taxpayers' money allocated to hire technical and legal talent to represent the peoples counsel's to the Maryland Public Service Commission whenever the utilities ask for a rate increase.

He pointed out that in the past the utilities came to the hearings on rate structure with an impressive total of legal and technical information. The state and its peoples counsel is hampered by a lack of funds in investigation of the investments of the utilities properties, he said.

Sen. Kimble said the administration had planned to introduce another bill on utility rates but after he and other leaders conferred with the governor last week it was decided to postpone any action.

Staff Is Selected

A legislative staff for the 30-day session of the General Assembly has been selected by Senator Kimble.

He announced that his legislative assistant will be Miss Harriet Eliason, 655 Washington Street, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. H. E. Eliason.

During the 1953 General Assembly, Sen. Kimble's assistant was Donald W. Mason, this city. As minority floor leader in the Senate, Sen. Kimble is allowed an assistant to handle many of the duties that fall upon his office.

Other Aides Picked

Miss Eliason is a university graduate in government research, Sen. Kimble stated.

His secretaries will be Miss Joan McKenzie and Miss Elizabeth Faye Shimer, both of Luke.

The senator said he will keep on file here for Allegany County residents all of the bills introduced at the legislature. This will be located in Trial Magistrates Court, in the County Building, Union Street.

Sen. Kimble commented on House Bill 687 which was passed by the 1953 legislature and was vetoed by Gov. McKeldin. Vetoed bills are the first to be taken up at the short session.

Help For County

This bill would increase the state liquor excise tax from $1.25 a gallon to $1.50 and through a re-allocation the 23 counties of Maryland would get a share of this revenue. Allegany County's share would run between $60,000 and $65,000.

Sen. Kimble said as minority party floor leader his job will be to represent the Republican administration and lead the fight to sustain the veto.

Westernport Group Protests Assessments

Three property owners in Westernport today protested to the Allegany County Board of Commissioners the increase in their assessments.

Horace P. Whitworth Jr., attorney for the property owners, presented the tax bills received by the protestants and said they wish to have the cases reviewed.

Leonardo Simonelli, who owns a property on Railroad Street, protested against an increase in his assessment to $4,425. Adah L. Sapiro, of Piedmont, who owns a property on Maryland Avenue in Westernport, protested the assessment of $5,350 against her and Russell Ott, 131 Wood Street, Westernport, protested his assessment. No amount was given in the Otto case.

Whitworth said a double residence was sold at public auction in Westernport last week for less than the amount of the assessment. The commissioners also stated that another property was sold at twice the assessed valuation of the property in question.

The Westernport and Luke areas were reassessed last year by the Assessing Department of the county and officials said the same valuation rule was followed as in other areas of the county. For many years the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company owned the majority of homes in Luke. A few years ago the company sold these homes to their employes and they were reassessed last year.

Jury Recommends No Further Action In Two Fatalities

BEDFORD—A Bedford County coroner's jury has recommended that no one be taken for further action in connection with the traffic deaths of two area men, including a Kelly-Springfield Tire Company worker.

The jurors, at an inquest, produced similar finding in the cases of:

Raymond R. Growden, of Centerville, who was killed December 12 on Route 220 south of Centerville, and Harry Amick, of Bedford, who died following a one-car crash December 20 on Route 30 just west of Bedford. Growden worked at the Kelly plant in Cumberland.

Witnesses in the Growden inquest were Mark Kissamore, RD 1, Magadore, Ohio, and his son, Owen Kissamore; Mr. and Mrs. James Fungaroli of Bedford and a State Trooper, J. Petyak.

Growden died as the result of a collision of his car with a truck driven by the elder Kissamore. Kissamore's son was a passenger in the vehicle at the time.

Officer Petyak, who investigated the crash, reconstructed the accidents for the jurors.

Atlantic Coast Girls Softball League Meets Here Feb. 22

Eight Teams Will Include Hermanettes

Queen City Brewery Is Host; Schedule Will Be Announced

Representatives of the eight teams in the newly formed Atlantic Coast Girls Softball League, in which Cumberland's entry is the Hermanettes, sponsored by the Queen City Brewing Company, will meet in the Herman Room of the local brewery on Monday, February 22 at 4 p. m. to adopt a schedule and formulate plans for the 1954 season.

The meeting has been called by Sam Alper, of Altoona, Pa., league president.

In addition to Cumberland the other teams in the new circuit are Baltimore, Washington, Pittsburgh, Homestead, Lancaster, Harrisburg and Altoona.

Gene Scaletta, vice president of the league, who will manage the Hermanettes, states that the majority of players on the local team's roster will be holdovers from the Central Quick Lunch team that won the championship of the Queens Softball League last year. Several other outstanding local players will be added to the squad.

The league is planning to stage its games on Saturdays and Sundays. Doubleheaders will be played on both days. The Hermanettes hope to play their home games at Penn Avenue Field, and a majority of the contests will be nocturnal affairs.

John Poston of Washington, D. C., is treasurer of the league and Bernadette Green, also of Washington, is secretary.

Campers Down Hawks, 73-55, For 14th Win

Hoffman Scores 21 To Pad City Lead; Showers Grabs 20

BY TED TROXELL

After finding Coach Chet Payne's Ridgeley High Blackhawks a tough nut to crack in the first half, Allegany's win-happy Campers coasted to a 73-55 victory, on the Ridgeley floor, last night.

The Campers led by only four points, 36-32, as the first half came to a close, but pepped up in the third period, and held an 11-point spread at the end of the quarter, 54-43, then outscored the West Virginians, 19-12, in the final stanza.

High scoring forward Jim Hoffman added to his city scoring lead by dumping in 21 points for the winners, hitting on 8 field goals and five of six fouls. Hoffman's 21 markers gave him a total of 240 points for the season, and an average of 16 points per game.

Bob Kirtley was right behind Hoffman in the scoring department with 20 points, and Fritz Showers, the Blackhawk's big point man, also rattled 20 through the nets, 10 in each half.

Ronnie Phillips, Ridgeley, was the only player to leave the game on personal fouls, departing with just 50 seconds remaining to be played.

Eddie Powelson, diminutive guard and playmaker of the Ridgeley quint, is suffering from flu, and was unable to play in last night's contest.

It was Allegany's 14th win in 15 starts, while for Ridgeley, it gave them a season record of five wins and 10 losses. It also gave Allegany a sweep of the series between the two schools, having topped the Hawks, 60-33, in the first encounter.

HAGERSTOWN, Feb. 2 — Coach Mel Henry's Hagerstown High School floormen extended their winning streak to seven games tonight by turning back Fort Hill High School of Cumberland in a 59-58 thriller.

Two free throws by Stotler in the final minute of play enabled the Hubs to hand the Sentinels their fourth consecutive defeat. Fort Hill had beaten the Maroon and Gray earlier in the season by the score of 71-59.

Queen City Brewery Is Host; Schedule Will Be Announced

Representatives of the eight teams in the newly formed Atlantic Coast Girls Softball League, in which Cumberland's entry is the Hermanettes, sponsored by the Queen City Brewing Company, will meet in the Herman Room of the local brewery on Monday, February 22 at 4 p. m. to adopt a schedule and formulate plans for the 1954 season.

The meeting has been called by Sam Alper, of Altoona, Pa., league president.

In addition to Cumberland the other teams in the new circuit are Baltimore, Washington, Pittsburgh, Homestead, Lancaster, Harrisburg and Altoona.

Gene Scaletta, vice president of the league, who will manage the Hermanettes, states that the majority of players on the local team's roster will be holdovers from the Central Quick Lunch team that won the championship of the Queens Softball League last year. Several other outstanding local players will be added to the squad.

The league is planning to stage its games on Saturdays and Sundays. Doubleheaders will be played on both days. The Hermanettes hope to play their home games at Penn Avenue Field, and a majority of the contests will be nocturnal affairs.

John Poston of Washington, D. C., is treasurer of the league and Bernadette Green, also of Washington, is secretary.

Milwaukee May Lose Franchise In Cage Circuit

Poor Attendance May Force Hawks To Move

MILWAUKEE, Feb. 2 (AP) — The city which hailed one major league sport with a fabulous turnstile count is on the fringe of losing its franchise in another because of poor attendance—and civic leaders don't like it.

Fans scrambled frantically for Milwaukee Braves' tickets last summer, with the club named the sports surprise of 1953 in an Associated Press poll. There's no such activity around the Milwaukee Hawks' box-office as the National Basketball Assn. team attempts to exist. It's doubtful whether the Hawks, in three years here, even have come close to 10 per cent of the 1,826,397 fans the Braves drew in one season.

Biggest Crowd 3,900

"The biggest paid crowd I've had all this year was 3,900, which makes even an optimist like me come to the conclusion that they like the Braves a bit better than my boys in Milwaukee," Hawks' owner Ben Kerner said today.

"I'll finish the season here but I haven't made up my mind about next year."

Just how much Kerner has lost in his three years here is something he won't discuss. He'll admit, though, that if he hadn't peddled players to the tune of $65,000 net and poured in the proceeds of a number of doubleheaders in which the Harlem Globetrotters were involved he'd have been out of business long ago.

Pays High Rent

Rental arrangements haven't helped Kerner. He pays $900 each time he used the municipally-owned arena - auditorium. The Braves' initial two-year contract for Milwaukee county stadium called for $1,000 annually, but the baseball club kicked in $25,000 voluntarily last year.

Rec Group To Meet

The Women's Recreation Association will meet tonight at 7 o'clock in the Fort Hill High School girls' gymnasium.

Brennan Plans To Change Irish Coaching Staff

May Retain At Least Two Of Leahy's Aides

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Feb. 2 (AP)—With Notre Dame's football spirit throbbing at its best, a tearful Frank Leahy officially turned over the Irish head coaching job today to 25-year-old Terry Brennan.

In a setting that Hollywood might not match, a throng of 500 Notre Dame students and a band blaring the Notre Dame victory march broke up a news conference at which Brennan told of plans for revising the Irish staff he inherited from the 45-year-old Leahy.

A group of Irish players, headed by quarterback Ralph Guglielmi, was in the throng which milled, between classes, in front of Notre Dame's campus hotel, the Morris Inn.

Leahy Is In Tears

Leahy and Brennan briefly greeted the cheering students and when he left an improvised podium tears were streaming from Leahy's eyes. Brennan, however, addressed the students without any show of emotion.

After a long session with newsreel camera and press photographers, Brennan announced that within two or three days he plans to name a staff of four assistants.

It was expected that only two of Leahy's staff would be retained. These presumably were Johnny Druze, head scout, and Bill Earley, defensive backfield coach. Leahy's other staff members had been Joe Mc Ardle, Walt Ziemba, Bob Mc Bride and Johnny Lujack.

To Revise "B" Team

Brennan had been freshman coach, the first formal yearling boss in Notre Dame history. In addition to four varsity helpers, Brennan said he planned to have a coach for "B" team football, which had faded out at Notre Dame in recent seasons, and a freshman football coach.

He did not indicate who his assistants might be.

Fans scrambled frantically for Milwaukee Braves' tickets last summer, with the club named the sports surprise of 1953 in an Associated Press poll. There's no such activity around the Milwaukee Hawks' box-office as the National Basketball Assn. team attempts to exist. It's doubtful whether the Hawks, in three years here, even have come close to 10 per cent of the 1,826,397 fans the Braves drew in one season.

Biggest Crowd 3,900

"The biggest paid crowd I've had all this year was 3,900, which makes even an optimist like me come to the conclusion that they like the Braves a bit better than my boys in Milwaukee," Hawks' owner Ben Kerner said today.

"I'll finish the season here but I haven't made up my mind about next year."

Just how much Kerner has lost in his three years here is something he won't discuss. He'll admit, though, that if he hadn't peddled players to the tune of $65,000 net and poured in the proceeds of a number of doubleheaders in which the Harlem Globetrotters were involved he'd have been out of business long ago.

Pays High Rent

Rental arrangements haven't helped Kerner. He pays $900 each time he used the municipally-owned arena - auditorium. The Braves' initial two-year contract for Milwaukee county stadium called for $1,000 annually, but the baseball club kicked in $25,000 voluntarily last year.

Brennan Plans To Change Irish Coaching Staff

May Retain At Least Two Of Leahy's Aides

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Feb. 2 (AP)—With Notre Dame's football spirit throbbing at its best, a tearful Frank Leahy officially turned over the Irish head coaching job today to 25-year-old Terry Brennan.

In a setting that Hollywood might not match, a throng of 500 Notre Dame students and a band blaring the Notre Dame victory march broke up a news conference at which Brennan told of plans for revising the Irish staff he inherited from the 45-year-old Leahy.

A group of Irish players, headed by quarterback Ralph Guglielmi, was in the throng which milled, between classes, in front of Notre Dame's campus hotel, the Morris Inn.

Leahy Is In Tears

Leahy and Brennan briefly greeted the cheering students and when he left an improvised podium tears were streaming from Leahy's eyes. Brennan, however, addressed the students without any show of emotion.

After a long session with newsreel camera and press photographers, Brennan announced that within two or three days he plans to name a staff of four assistants.

It was expected that only two of Leahy's staff would be retained. These presumably were Johnny Druze, head scout, and Bill Earley, defensive backfield coach. Leahy's other staff members had been Joe Mc Ardle, Walt Ziemba, Bob Mc Bride and Johnny Lujack.

To Revise "B" Team

Brennan had been freshman coach, the first formal yearling boss in Notre Dame history. In addition to four varsity helpers, Brennan said he planned to have a coach for "B" team football, which had faded out at Notre Dame in recent seasons, and a freshman football coach.

He did not indicate who his assistants might be.

Council Plans Repairs At Piedmont Pool Area

Officials Review Sewage Plant Survey

PIEDMONT — The Piedmont swimming pool will be repainted before the opening of the summer season and the trees on the grounds will be trimmed.

It was ordered at the meeting of Mayor Allan L. Hill and City Council Monday evening to secure prices on the paint.

The advisability of removing the pier from the center of the pool was discussed but no definite action was taken. Mayor Hill stated there was a balance of $600.13 in the pool account.

Councilman Garland Cheshire was authorized to purchase tools not to exceed $100 for the use of town street employes. It was also ordered that Daniel Ross, street superintendent is to be responsible that they be kept in their proper place when not in use and they are not to be loaned to anyone.

Following the discussion of some persons throwing garbage at improper places it was ordered that any one violating the law of disposing of garbage or refuse will be arrested and if convicted will be fined not less than $10 and costs.

There were some complaints of garbage men handling the cans more roughly than is necessary.

Ormond Ledlow, city clerk, reported that 403 garbage cards have been sold for the first quarter.

Councilman Norman Baughman stated that the Keyser Fire Company is interested in the purchase of the two-way FM radio system in the city's police car which is not being operated at the present time. The fire company wants to install it on their police car and fire station.

City officials decided not to sell it as they may put it into use again at some future time.

A proposal from the Michael Baker Engineering Company offering to make a preliminary survey of the city's sewerage system for $1,000 was read by Mayor Hill.

For that price the company would prepare a report covering existing sanitary sewer facilities within the city and an outline of future facilities necessary to meet the requirements of the West Virginia State Health Department.

In the event they are authorized to proceed with construction plans for this project 50 per cent of the cost of this report or the sum of $500 will be credited towards the costs of the plan preparations. Ten copies of the report will be furnished the city.

A communication was also read from A. W. Conley, Cumberland, superintendent, Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company, stating the receipt of the resolution passed by the mayor and council regarding the installation of automatic lights and gates at the Child's Avenue crossing.

Mayor Hill, stated, parking meter collections and violations totaled $73.66.

Councilman Garland Cheshire was authorized to purchase tools not to exceed $100 for the use of town street employes. It was also ordered that Daniel Ross, street superintendent is to be responsible that they be kept in their proper place when not in use and they are not to be loaned to anyone.

Following the discussion of some persons throwing garbage at improper places it was ordered that any one violating the law of disposing of garbage or refuse will be arrested and if convicted will be fined not less than $10 and costs.

There were some complaints of garbage men handling the cans more roughly than is necessary.

Ormond Ledlow, city clerk, reported that 403 garbage cards have been sold for the first quarter.

Councilman Norman Baughman stated that the Keyser Fire Company is interested in the purchase of the two-way FM radio system in the city's police car which is not being operated at the present time. The fire company wants to install it on their police car and fire station.

City officials decided not to sell it as they may put it into use again at some future time.

A proposal from the Michael Baker Engineering Company offering to make a preliminary survey of the city's sewerage system for $1,000 was read by Mayor Hill.

For that price the company would prepare a report covering existing sanitary sewer facilities within the city and an outline of future facilities necessary to meet the requirements of the West Virginia State Health Department.

In the event they are authorized to proceed with construction plans for this project 50 per cent of the cost of this report or the sum of $500 will be credited towards the costs of the plan preparations. Ten copies of the report will be furnished the city.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 2 (INS) — It's a long stretch from the Republic Studios in San Fernando Valley to Germany, but Herb "Papa" Yates is spanning it with two productions he'll make in Munich and Berlin.

William Dieterle has just tied up with Republic to produce and direct "The Life of Richard Wagner," a project he (Dieterle) has been working on for 10 years. Whether or not Dieterle is finished with his next movie, "Joseph and His Brethren" at Columbia, a camera crew will be sent to the Bayreuth Festival in Germany which each year honors the great Wagner.

However, Virginia Van Upp's thriller, "The Big Whisper," a suspense drama of espionage between West Berlin and East Berlin will be the first Yates German-made film to go before the cameras.

"Oklahoma" starts May 1 for sure. Already some outdoor scenes have been filmed.

Hundreds of tests have been made for the role of Curly, but I can tell you as of this moment that the young man who has the inside track is Gordon MacRae. His voice is in his favor, and he looks very young.

It's important to have a Curly who looks like a country boy and is not sophisticated, and I believe Gordon fills the bill. I'd like to see him get this coveted role.

"Mr. District Attorney," one of radio's favorites, has just been converted to television. Ziv Television Programs paid Phillip Lord a quarter of a million dollars for both radio and TV rights.

David Brian has been signed to play the title role, and the series will be filmed right here in Los Angeles with very few studio sets. The actual crime lab, the morgue and the police station will be used in the film.

Up to the hour of going to press, Marlon Brando was among the missing at 20th. The strange Mr. Brando not only had wardrobe tests made for "The Egyptian," but he rehearsed for several scenes before he walked out, leaving the studio high and dry.

It seems it's an old custom on the part of Brando to walk out and take Dutch leave. When he was making "Waterfront" he left the cast nine times and had all concerned in a tizzy.

There are big negotiations afoot between Leland Hayward, Billy Wilder and the Todd-Ao Company. Leland and Billy want to do the Lindbergh flight, "The Spirit of St. Louis," in this new process.

Hayward, who is in town now, went to Buffalo to see a demonstration of this process owned by Joseph Schenck and Mike Todd. He was so pleased with what he saw he started talks to use it when the picture goes before the camera.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Attractive Beverly Richards is receiving best wishes on her coming marriage to Dr. Stanley Gamel, prominent young physician in Manhattan Beach. She was one of the singing stars in Jimmy McHugh's act.

Mrs. Jimmy Roosevelt hasn't left her home since that letter was published. Looks as if there will be a lot of fireworks with the irate 12 women being mentioned planning to sue.

Lawrence Welk's daughter, Shirley, 21, will be married this summer to Robert Emmett Fredericks. Both are seniors at Marquette University.

Diana Lynn was a dinner twosome with her ex-husband, John Lindsay at Abruzzi's restaurant, which John designed.

April Kent, pretty 18-year-old daughter of June Havoc and niece of Gypsey Rose Lee, makes her dancing debut at the Copacabana Feb. 4. Difficult to believe that April is now 18.

The talk of New York is 21-year-old Charlie Applewhite, who made a hit on Milton Berle's TV show. He's been offered a contract by CBS and may make a movie. He hails from Ft. Worth, Texas.

Jayne Meadows' marriage to Steve Allen will take place this summer.

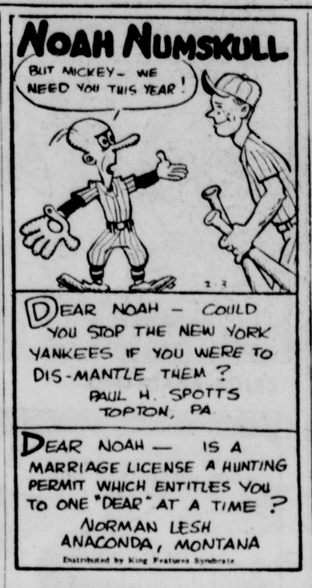
Big applause greeted Mitzi Gaynor at the Palm Springs Tennis Club when she peeled off her evening gown and appeared in a hand knit swim suit at Diane's fashion show.

That's all today. See you tomorrow.



Awarded Air Medal

Glenn L. Hillegas, aviation electronicsman third class, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert S. Hillegas, city, recently was presented the Air Medal during ceremonies held by Patrol Squadron 7 in the Far East. The award was authorized as a result of his partaking in aerial flights as a member of a patrol plane crew.

Agricultural Economist Named To Conference

Arthur B. Hamilton, University of Maryland Extension Service agricultural economist, has been appointed to serve as a member of the White House Conference on Highway Safety which President Eisenhower has called for February 17 to 19.

The conference has been organized into seven groups. Hamilton will serve as secretary of the agriculture group. Other groups will represent business, women, organizations (service, fraternal, religious, etc.) labor, public officials and media of public information.

Hamilton was appointed by J. Earl Coke, assistant secretary of agriculture. He attended committee meetings in Washington January 11 and 12 to help plan an agenda for the conference.

The United States Geological Survey now uses helicopters to map glacier-strewn Alaskan terrain that formerly took days to cover on foot.

The United States is the world's leading coal producer.

Spiders are not insects, but arachnids, having four pairs of legs and with bodies divided into two parts.

Radio And Television

Another Godfrey

Kathy Godfrey is in a difficult position. Being Arthur Godfrey's sister isn't such a bad thing provided one isn't on television. And being on television isn't so bad provided one isn't Arthur Godfrey's sister. Taking on both things at once, though, is asking a little too much of anyone, even a Godfrey.

John Crosby

The world is divided into two classes of people—the ones who worship Arthur and the ones who, to tread as delicately as possible, don't. Kathy Godfrey, who looks a little like Arthur in a wig, is going to irritate the first bunch by seeming to impersonate their idol. And she's going to irritate the other bunch by seeming to impersonate their something-less-than-idol. The better the impersonation, the more the second bunch is going to be infuriated and the worse the impersonation the madder the first bunch is going to get. And that's enough of that.

Actually, Kathy has a lot of her brother's charm and I think eventually she may acquire what for lack of a better word I call his presence. (Presence, according to Crosby's Unwritten Dictionary, is the ability to make the TV screen glow eerily. Twelve-inch screens expand to 14 inches and color TV screens turn phosphorescent. It takes an awful lot of humility to have presence).

Considering the formidable handicaps she's operating under, Miss Godfrey has selected a remarkbly insipid vehicle to launch her network career on. Originally it had been planned to send her down the ways in a show first called "Up For Adoption" and later called "The Truth About Adoption." At the trial kinescope of this, Miss Godfrey exhibited signs of the Godfrey temperament which, I guess, runs through the entire family and the show blew up.

Batten, Barton, Durstine and Osborne then thrust her into a sort of quiz giveaway called "On Your Way" which is pretty weak. On "On Your Way," Miss Godfrey plays the part of a Lady Bountiful who is desperately anxious to send people from New York to Tuscaloosa or wherever else they want to go.

First man up on her new show was a man who told Miss Godfrey that he wanted to go to Arizona because—well—he lives in Arizona. Seems reasonable enough. (What do you suppose he was doing here in New York?) "I know everything is going to be all right," said Miss Godfrey soothingly. "We want to help you."

She then turned him over to John Reed King, a master of ceremonies of redoubtable lung power, who bellowed silly quiz questions at him. The contestant got the right answers for all but the last one which meant he got a ticket for a plane ride almost to Arizona and, I guess, hitchhiked the rest of the way. So it went. Whole families would gather around Miss G. and ask to be transported someplace and would cluck sympathetically and say she hoped they got there.

This isn't a very demanding role and frankly I think this girl is well equipped to handle something bigger like maybe a joke. She has warmth and an air of intelligence (though the intelligence we'll have to take under advisement until she's permitted to exhibit it). Just possibly, B. B. D. O. thinks Kathy needs to play the tank towns for awhile before she hits the big time and, believe me, she's doing it. On a show like this a girl can make a lot of mistakes without offending many people because there aren't going to be many around.

One of the contestants, incidentally, didn't want to go any place. He just wanted the money. (I once knew a man who didn't need money. But he died). For the jackpot question Eva Gabor got into the act, pausing just long enough to plug her new book. "When I arrived," said Eva dreamily, "I was 122 pounds which in Hungary is all right but in Hollywood is a lot of fat." That was the most sensible and easily the most illuminating remark during the whole show.

The meeting was asked by Commissioner John J. Long who is seeking to standardize the city's meters to prevent confusion among users.

Also attending was Police Chief R. Emmett Flynn. No decision was reached. Long said several other companies are to show their mechanisms to the council.

Thompson Approved As Head Of GOC Program

Governor McKeldin has announced that he has approved the appointment of Henry B. Thompson, by State Civil Defense Director Sherley Ewing, to head Maryland's Ground Observer Corps program. Thompson, 57, a veteran of World Wars I and II, retired from the textile business in 1951. He will work closely with Major Richard Dickson, the Air Force's Maryland G.O.C. representative, in establishing observer posts throughout the State.

Radio And Television

Another Godfrey

Kathy Godfrey is in a difficult position. Being Arthur Godfrey's sister isn't such a bad thing provided one isn't on television. And being on television isn't so bad provided one isn't Arthur Godfrey's sister. Taking on both things at once, though, is asking a little too much of anyone, even a Godfrey.

John Crosby

The world is divided into two classes of people—the ones who worship Arthur and the ones who, to tread as delicately as possible, don't. Kathy Godfrey, who looks a little like Arthur in a wig, is going to irritate the first bunch by seeming to impersonate their idol. And she's going to irritate the other bunch by seeming to impersonate their something-less-than-idol. The better the impersonation, the more the second bunch is going to be infuriated and the worse the impersonation the madder the first bunch is going to get. And that's enough of that.

Actually, Kathy has a lot of her brother's charm and I think eventually she may acquire what for lack of a better word I call his presence. (Presence, according to Crosby's Unwritten Dictionary, is the ability to make the TV screen glow eerily. Twelve-inch screens expand to 14 inches and color TV screens turn phosphorescent. It takes an awful lot of humility to have presence).

Considering the formidable handicaps she's operating under, Miss Godfrey has selected a remarkbly insipid vehicle to launch her network career on. Originally it had been planned to send her down the ways in a show first called "Up For Adoption" and later called "The Truth About Adoption." At the trial kinescope of this, Miss Godfrey exhibited signs of the Godfrey temperament which, I guess, runs through the entire family and the show blew up.

Batten, Barton, Durstine and Osborne then thrust her into a sort of quiz giveaway called "On Your Way" which is pretty weak. On "On Your Way," Miss Godfrey plays the part of a Lady Bountiful who is desperately anxious to send people from New York to Tuscaloosa or wherever else they want to go.

First man up on her new show was a man who told Miss Godfrey that he wanted to go to Arizona because—well—he lives in Arizona. Seems reasonable enough. (What do you suppose he was doing here in New York?) "I know everything is going to be all right," said Miss Godfrey soothingly. "We want to help you."

She then turned him over to John Reed King, a master of ceremonies of redoubtable lung power, who bellowed silly quiz questions at him. The contestant got the right answers for all but the last one which meant he got a ticket for a plane ride almost to Arizona and, I guess, hitchhiked the rest of the way. So it went. Whole families would gather around Miss G. and ask to be transported someplace and would cluck sympathetically and say she hoped they got there.

This isn't a very demanding role and frankly I think this girl is well equipped to handle something bigger like maybe a joke. She has warmth and an air of intelligence (though the intelligence we'll have to take under advisement until she's permitted to exhibit it). Just possibly, B. B. D. O. thinks Kathy needs to play the tank towns for awhile before she hits the big time and, believe me, she's doing it. On a show like this a girl can make a lot of mistakes without offending many people because there aren't going to be many around.

One of the contestants, incidentally, didn't want to go any place. He just wanted the money. (I once knew a man who didn't need money. But he died). For the jackpot question Eva Gabor got into the act, pausing just long enough to plug her new book. "When I arrived," said Eva dreamily, "I was 122 pounds which in Hungary is all right but in Hollywood is a lot of fat." That was the most sensible and easily the most illuminating remark during the whole show.

Parking Meters Get Study By Council

Members of the Mayor and Council met with a representative of the Duncan Meter Company, Chicago, Monday for illustration of two types of parking meters.

The meeting was asked by Commissioner John J. Long who is seeking to standardize the city's meters to prevent confusion among users.

Also attending was Police Chief R. Emmett Flynn. No decision was reached. Long said several other companies are to show their mechanisms to the council.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our dear father, Mr. Samuel K. Turner who passed away 1 year ago today Feb. 3, 1953
They say time heals all sorrow,
and helps us to forget.
But time so far, has only proved
how much I miss you yet.
In all your suffering and all the pain never once did you complain
You always greeted us with a smile
and called us each by name.
Life without you pop will never be the same.
Sadly missed by his daughter
Mrs. Blanche (Kirk) Warnick

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our dear father, Mr. Samuel K. Turner who passed away 1 year ago today Feb. 3, 1953
They say time heals all sorrow,
and helps us to forget.
But time so far, has only proved
how much I miss you yet.
In all your suffering and all the pain never once did you complain
You always greeted us with a smile
and called us each by name.
Life without you pop will never
be the same.
Mrs. Blanche (Kirk) Warnick

INSTALLING NEW MILK TANKS — Two new 3,000-gallon stainless steel milk storage tanks are being added to the plant equipment of Queen City Dairy, South Mechanic Street. Workmen are seen here unloading the tanks from trucks which brought them here from Portersville, Pa. yesterday. John D. Liebau, plant manager, said the tanks increase the storage capacity to 10,000 gallons and were made necessary by increased demand for milk in the area. The new tanks will be in use within the next few days.

New Ridgeley High Booster Club Formed, Fryer Is Head

A Ridgeley High School Booster Club was organized Monday at a meeting in the school auditorium.

Named temporary officers were Charles Fryer, president; Marion Phillips, secretary, and Mrs. Ruth Coffman, treasurer.

Fryer, police commissioner of Ridgeley presided and made a short talk on the purpose of the club — to assist and boost the high school's activities.

Fryer was instrumental in forming the Ridgeley Police Boys Club two years ago.

M. M. Heiskell, principal of the high school, spoke on the need of an organization to keep the citizens of Ridgeley and the school in closer contact with each other.

Chester Payne, football and basketball coach, stated he was glad the club was being formed as from the past lean year in athletic results the teams need boosting. He said, however, that he thought this situation was on the upswing. The coach pledged his full cooperation.

The next meeting was set for Monday at 7:30 p. m. at the high school. They will continue weekly until Monday, February 22, when the club will sponsor a "booster night" program for the Ridgeley-Fort Hill high school basketball game.

Heiskell was appointed as chairman of a committee to draw up by-laws. On his committee are Coach Payne, Paul Fisher, George Justice and Eston Turner.

Avis "Ace" Comer, former sports star at Ridgeley High, was named chairman of the men's membership committee and Mrs. Mary Lou Comer, chairman of the women's membership committee. Jimmie D. Flanagan was appointed publicity chairman.

Daily Bridge Lesson — by Barclay

POOR, FAIR AND GOOD

SOME deals afford an opportunity for the use of three grades of skill, which might well be tabbed poor, fair and good. All three ranges apply just as much to a rubber bridge contract as to one in a duplicate tournament. The latter style of game, however, produces an illustration of what actually happens when the three qualities are applied.

	♠ J 10 ♥ A Q 10 7 5 3 ♦ K 2 ♣ 7 4 3
♠ Q 8 5 3 ♥ 2 ♦ 10 4 3 ♣ J 10 8 6 5	N W E S	♠ 9 7 4 ♥ K J 9 8 ♦ J 9 8 5 ♣ K 9
	♠ A K 6 2 ♥ 6 4 ♦ A Q 7 6 ♣ A Q 2

(Dealer: West. Both sides vulnerable.)

West	North	East	South
Pass	Pass	Pass	1 ♦
Pass	1 ♥	Pass	1 ♠
Pass	2 ♥	Pass	3 NT

Suppose we forget the cases in which North played this deal at 4-Hearts and barely made his contract because of the bad trump break, to consider the contrasts among the play by three Souths for a No Trump game. At all three tables West led the club J, but the results varied widely.

An inept declarer, after winning the cover of that by the K with the A, finessed the heart 10 to the J, let the club 9 to the 10 win, then took the 8 with the Q. He led the heart 4 to the A and then the spade J, sending it through to the Q. West then scored club tricks with the established 6 and 5 to beat the contract.

At both other No Trump tables, South let East have the first club with the K and took the 9 with the A, as each of these declarers had counted two sure tricks in clubs, three in diamonds, two spade tops plus one for the J or 10, and one heart, or a total of nine. Then they led toward the spades in dummy, West using his Q. The club 6 in each case came back to the Q. One of these declarers then scored the spade J, diamond K and A, diamond Q, spade A and K and the heart A to have his contract before giving up the last two tricks.

The keener declarer did likewise until he reached the eleventh trick. At that stage he had noted discards carefully and had East counted as holding the diamond J plus two hearts. Not caring what those hearts were, he led his diamond 7, which East won with the J. That unfortunate defender could do nothing but return a heart into the dummy's A-Q to give the declarer the last two tricks, an extra above his contract. See if you can figure out the card-reading which guided South to that end-play.

Tomorrow's Problem

	♠ A K Q 8 3 ♥ A 7 6 4 ♦ K 7 2 ♣ 10
♠ 9 6 2 ♥ Q J ♦ Q 6 3 ♣ A Q 9 8 5	N W E S	♠ J 7 4 ♥ 10 5 3 2 ♦ 10 5 4 ♣ J 6 2
	♠ 10 5 ♥ K 9 8 ♦ A J 9 8 ♣ K 7 4 3

(Dealer: South. North-South vulnerable.)

After East puts the J on the club 8 lead, how should South seek maximum results in his 3-No Trumps?

Selective Recovery Follows Moderate Market Decline

NEW YORK, Feb. 2 (AP)—A moderate decline, punctuated by selective recovery, today marked the quiet course of the Stock Market.

The fall seldom got past a point, and no pressure on the selling side developed at any time.

While most major divisions of the market were lower today, there were a few firm spots in the rubbers, mail order houses, utilities, railroads, motion pictures, and several individual issues.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks declined 20 cents at $113.-00. It was off 40 cents yesterday. The industrial component of today's average lost 30 cents, railroads were off 40 cents, and the utilities turned in a gain of 10 cents.

The number of issues traded came to 1,144, which was 24 less than yesterday. Of these, 341 advanced and 489 declined with 35 new highs and 4 new lows for 1953-54 touched during the day.

The Newport News Shipbuilding & Drydock Co. shot ahead 3½ at 30 after it won the Navy contract to build the new Forrestal class supercarrier, the third of these 60,-000-tons ships.

Retrial Case In Damage Suit Goes To Jury

A Mineral County Circuit Court jury at Keyser deliberated about half an hour last evening in the civil case of Lelia Wendell against the G. C. Murphy Company, and then was excused for the night with court instructions to return at 10 a. m. today and resume deliberations.

This case at Keyser, W. Va., has attracted considerable attention.

The case was tried in 1951 and appealed to the Supreme Court of Appeals in West Virginia and ordered for retrial in Mineral County. Mrs. Wendell claims she suffered injuries in a fall in the company's store.

Witnesses heard Monday were Bernard Markwood, Sheriff Earl E. Kemp and Mrs. John McPhall, who testified as to one main witness in the original trial, who disappeared shortly thereafter and has not been heard from since. This testimony was heard while the jury was out of the court room.

Others testifying before the jury were Dr. T. C. Giffin, who attended Mrs. Wendell in September 1949, and Charles Robinson, now stationed at Camp Lee, Va.

The court also heard testimony yesterday from witnesses representing both the plaintiff and defendant. Attorney Vernon E. Rankin is representing the plaintiff and Attorney Lester R. Reynolds is appearing for the defendant.

The case against Edmund Wageley, (two counts) charged with shooting Lawrence Cline, was docketed for opening yesterday, but was held up. The jury was selected yesterday and the case is scheduled for trial today.

Workmen are seen here unloading the tanks from trucks which brought them here from Portersville, Pa. yesterday. John D. Liebau, plant manager, said the tanks increase the storage capacity to 10,000 gallons and were made necessary by increased demand for milk in the area. The new tanks will be in use within the next few days.

New Ridgeley High Booster Club Formed, Fryer Is Head

A Ridgeley High School Booster Club was organized Monday at a meeting in the school auditorium.

Named temporary officers were Charles Fryer, president; Marion Phillips, secretary, and Mrs. Ruth Coffman, treasurer.

Fryer, police commissioner of Ridgeley presided and made a short talk on the purpose of the club — to assist and boost the high school's activities.

Fryer was instrumental in forming the Ridgeley Police Boys Club two years ago.

M. M. Heiskell, principal of the high school, spoke on the need of an organization to keep the citizens of Ridgeley and the school in closer contact with each other.

Chester Payne, football and basketball coach, stated he was glad the club was being formed as from the past lean year in athletic results the teams need boosting. He said, however, that he thought this situation was on the upswing. The coach pledged his full cooperation.

The next meeting was set for Monday at 7:30 p. m. at the high school. They will continue weekly until Monday, February 22, when the club will sponsor a "booster night" program for the Ridgeley-Fort Hill high school basketball game.

Heiskell was appointed as chairman of a committee to draw up by-laws. On his committee are Coach Payne, Paul Fisher, George Justice and Eston Turner.

Avis "Ace" Comer, former sports star at Ridgeley High, was named chairman of the men's membership committee and Mrs. Mary Lou Comer, chairman of the women's membership committee. Jimmie D. Flanagan was appointed publicity chairman.

POOR, FAIR AND GOOD

SOME deals afford an opportunity for the use of three grades of skill, which might well be tabbed poor, fair and good. All three ranges apply just as much to a rubber bridge contract as to one in a duplicate tournament. The latter style of game, however, produces an illustration of what actually happens when the three qualities are applied.

	♠ J 10 ♥ A Q 10 7 5 3 ♦ K 2 ♣ 7 4 3
♠ Q 8 5 3 ♥ 2 ♦ 10 4 3 ♣ J 10 8 6 5	N W E S	♠ 9 7 4 ♥ K J 9 8 ♦ J 9 8 5 ♣ K 9
	♠ A K 6 2 ♥ 6 4 ♦ A Q 7 6 ♣ A Q 2

West	North	East	South
Pass	Pass	Pass	1 ♦
Pass	1 ♥	Pass	1 ♠
Pass	2 ♥	Pass	3 NT

Suppose we forget the cases in which North played this deal at 4-Hearts and barely made his contract because of the bad trump break, to consider the contrasts among the play by three Souths for a No Trump game. At all three tables West led the club J, but the results varied widely.

An inept declarer, after winning the cover of that by the K with the A, finessed the heart 10 to the J, let the club 9 to the 10 win, then took the 8 with the Q. He led the heart 4 to the A and then the spade J, sending it through to the Q. West then scored club tricks with the established 6 and 5 to beat the contract.

At both other No Trump tables, South let East have the first club with the K and took the 9 with the A, as each of these declarers had counted two sure tricks in clubs, three in diamonds, two spade tops plus one for the J or 10, and one heart, or a total of nine. Then they led toward the spades in dummy, West using his Q. The club 6 in each case came back to the Q. One of these declarers then scored the spade J, diamond K and A, diamond Q, spade A and K and the heart A to have his contract before giving up the last two tricks.

The keener declarer did likewise until he reached the eleventh trick. At that stage he had noted discards carefully and had East counted as holding the diamond J plus two hearts. Not caring what those hearts were, he led his diamond 7, which East won with the J. That unfortunate defender could do nothing but return a heart into the dummy's A-Q to give the declarer the last two tricks, an extra above his contract. See if you can figure out the card-reading which guided South to that end-play.

Tomorrow's Problem

	♠ A K Q 8 3 ♥ A 7 6 4 ♦ K 7 2 ♣ 10
♠ 9 6 2 ♥ Q J ♦ Q 6 3 ♣ A Q 9 8 5	N W E S	♠ J 7 4 ♥ 10 5 3 2 ♦ 10 5 4 ♣ J 6 2
	♠ 10 5 ♥ K 9 8 ♦ A J 9 8 ♣ K 7 4 3

(Dealer: South. North-South vulnerable.)

After East puts the J on the club 8 lead, how should South seek maximum results in his 3-No Trumps?

Selective Recovery Follows Moderate Market Decline

NEW YORK, Feb. 2 (AP)—A moderate decline, punctuated by selective recovery, today marked the quiet course of the Stock Market.

The fall seldom got past a point, and no pressure on the selling side developed at any time.

While most major divisions of the market were lower today, there were a few firm spots in the rubbers, mail order houses, utilities, railroads, motion pictures, and several individual issues.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks declined 20 cents at $113.-00. It was off 40 cents yesterday. The industrial component of today's average lost 30 cents, railroads were off 40 cents, and the utilities turned in a gain of 10 cents.

The number of issues traded came to 1,144, which was 24 less than yesterday. Of these, 341 advanced and 489 declined with 35 new highs and 4 new lows for 1953-54 touched during the day.

The Newport News Shipbuilding & Drydock Co. shot ahead 3½ at 30 after it won the Navy contract to build the new Forrestal class supercarrier, the third of these 60,-000-tons ships.

Retrial Case In Damage Suit Goes To Jury

A Mineral County Circuit Court jury at Keyser deliberated about half an hour last evening in the civil case of Lelia Wendell against the G. C. Murphy Company, and then was excused for the night with court instructions to return at 10 a. m. today and resume deliberations.

This case at Keyser, W. Va., has attracted considerable attention.

The case was tried in 1951 and appealed to the Supreme Court of Appeals in West Virginia and ordered for retrial in Mineral County. Mrs. Wendell claims she suffered injuries in a fall in the company's store.

Witnesses heard Monday were Bernard Markwood, Sheriff Earl E. Kemp and Mrs. John McPhall, who testified as to one main witness in the original trial, who disappeared shortly thereafter and has not been heard from since. This testimony was heard while the jury was out of the court room.

Others testifying before the jury were Dr. T. C. Giffin, who attended Mrs. Wendell in September 1949, and Charles Robinson, now stationed at Camp Lee, Va.

The court also heard testimony yesterday from witnesses representing both the plaintiff and defendant. Attorney Vernon E. Rankin is representing the plaintiff and Attorney Lester R. Reynolds is appearing for the defendant.

The case against Edmund Wageley, (two counts) charged with shooting Lawrence Cline, was docketed for opening yesterday, but was held up. The jury was selected yesterday and the case is scheduled for trial today.

One letter simple stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Bloodmobile Sets All-Time Record

217½ Pints Given In One-Day Visit

An overwhelming response to appeals for blood donors to the Red Cross Blood Mobile yesterday at the Eagles Home resulted in a one-day record for Cumberland and fulfillment of the two-day county quota.

According to Mrs. Charles F. Helmrich, recruiting chairman, a total of 217½ pints of blood was donated. Added to the 97 pints collected in Lonaconing from Georges Creek residents on Monday, this totaled 314½, or 14½ pints more than the two-day quota of 300.

All-Time Record

It was one of the few times Allegany County has met its full two-day quota, and the result here yesterday was an all-time one-day record since the beginning of the blood bank plan as sponsored by the Red Cross.

Mrs. Helmrich said 336 donors were scheduled for yesterday, and 179 came in. The others were ill, out of town or cancelled their appointments for other reasons. However, the record day resulted when a total of 85 walk-ins volunteered. This was another record for volunteer walk-ins, the highest previous number being 67 on any single day.

Of those giving blood yesterday, however, only 28 were first time donors, which means, Mrs. Helmrich pointed out, that most of the blood collected came from people who had donated before.

Blood Still Needed

Eight persons became members of the Red Cross Gallon Club because the blood they gave yesterday made a total of eight pints. The new Gallon Club members include, Stephen Rowan, 16 Mary Street; Raymond Dorn, 824 Camden Avenue; Mrs. Maude Banzhoff, 415 Bedford Street; Mrs. Virginia Jenkins, Potomac Park; Donald S. Hudson, RFD 5, Garland P. Cooper, Burlington, and Mrs. Virginia Broome, Patterson Creek.

Red Cross officials here last night were pleased with the response to the appeals for blood. If the Blood Mobile is to make regular visits here, and if hospitals in the county are to continue their affiliation with the mobile blood bank program, officials point out, that it is essential that quotas of 150 pints a day on each visit be met.

For some months now, hospitals in this county have been using more blood from the bank than Allegany County citizens have been donating.

Opinion Settles Dispute Over O'Neill Estate

Daughter Need Not Pay For Funeral

Mrs. Hazel Green of Lonaconing is not required to pay the debts and $650.50 funeral expenses of her father, the late Benjamin J. O'Neill of Homewood Addition, from a $1,567.33 savings account he gave her nine days before his death.

That ruling is set out in a four-page opinion filed yesterday by Associate Judge Morgan C. Harris in an equity suit in Allegany County Circuit Court.

Brings Action

The action was brought by William R. Carscaden as administrator c.t.a. of O'Neill's estate, against Mrs. Green. Subsequently, three other children of O'Neill—Elmer O'Neill, Alberta Fuller and John O'Neill—were made parties plaintiff. A fifth child of O'Neill, William O'Neill, lives in the West and was not a party to the proceedings.

In his will, O'Neill left $300 each to his two daughters and $200 each to the three sons. Aside from the disputed bank account he had personal property sold for $78.30 and real estate which was sold for $1,100, making a total of $1,178.30.

Judge Harris notes in his opinion that O'Neill named Mrs. Green executrix of his estate. After a dispute arose among the legatees, Mrs. Green declined to act as executrix and Carscaden was named administrator c.t.a.

Agreement Argued

The complainants contend that when the Hazel C. Green account was created at First Federal Savings and Loan Association October 21, 1952, there was an agreement between O'Neill and his daughter that she would pay all of his debts and funeral expenses in the event of his death. Judge Harris concludes that the complainants have not met the burden of proof to show that the account was anything but a gift.

"There is nothing to show that he (O'Neill) was coerced into doing anything he did not want to do," Judge Harris wrote. "This gift to her (Mrs. Green) seems to be the result of some affection, attachment or parental love that a father sometimes has for one child more than another. If a man disposes of his estate in the free exercise of his own free will and judgment, the court is not authorized to nullify his gift because of the judicial belief that he may have been too generous or that he disregarded consideration of kinship which should justly have been recognized . . . ," he added.

In dismissing the suit, Judge Harris ordered the complainants to pay the court costs.

Suspended Term Given Youth In Parent Assault

James E. Porter, 19, of Corriganville, yesterday was given a year's suspended sentence in the Maryland House of Correction on a charge of assaulting his father, John Porter, in an altercation at the family's home Sunday, January 24.

Porter pleaded not guilty before Magistrate J. Milton Dick in Trial Magistrate Court after waiving a jury trial. Dick, in passing sentence on the youth, stipulated the boy was to seek employment, help his parents financially, be of good behavior generally, and attend church regularly.

The tussle started with an argument in the home after the parents had returned from church. Porter told the court. The boy was accused of using "profane language" and, when he was admonished by his father the argument began.

Cpl. William F. Baker, criminal investigator for the Maryland State Police, said the youth had assaulted his father and given the older man such a severe beating that he required hospitalization for six days.

Released from the hospital on Saturday, the elder Porter appeared in court yesterday and pleaded for leniency on behalf of his son.

Unemployed and permanently disabled following a rock quarry explosion near Corriganville several years ago, the father is unable to work.

However, Judge Dick, in view of the youth's promise to aid his parents and because of the father's wish that the boy not be sent away, suspended the term.

Schade Is Given Suspended Term In Auto Theft

Harold W. Schade, 32, of Galitzen, Pa., yesterday was given a suspended one-year sentence to the Maryland House of Correction on a charge of unauthorized use of a motor vehicle when he appeared before Magistrate Donald W. Mason, Trial Magistrates Court.

Schade was arrested last Friday by West Virginia State Police after the vehicle he was driving crashed into a guard rail. The automobile, owned by Leo F. Bergman, 210 Beall Street, had been reported stolen from North Mechanic Street in Cumberland, some 15 or 20 minutes prior to the accident, on West Virginia Route 28 near the Miltenberger farm.

Mason said last night that Schade had a wife and two children and that he had no previous criminal record. Schade, said police, had admitted taking the car and had been held in Allegany County Jail on $1,000 bond pending his hearing yesterday before Mason.

The magistrate suspended the one-year term with the condition that Schade leave the state of Maryland and not return, be of good behavior generally, and support his wife and children.

Detective Lt. James E. Van swore out the warrant against Schade and federal authorities were interested in the case because the stolen car had been transported across a state line.

However, Mason said last night the federal authorities had decided not to prosecute.

Doctors Request More Funds For Medical Care

Requests Referred To County Delegation

The Allegany-Garrett Medical Society has asked the Allegany County Delegation to the General Assembly to help restore a $50,000 cut made last year in funds alloted to the Medical Care program in Maryland.

The decreased appropriation resulted in the dropping of some 2,000 persons from the Medical Care rolls in the state. In Allegany County, the 1953-54 quota was dropped about 250 to 2,402, as a result of the economy move.

Provisions were made here, as elsewhere in the state, to take care of any exceptional or emergency cases.

The Medical Care program was set up in Maryland a number of years ago to provide free medical and dental services for those who cannot afford to pay for the services.

In 1952-53 the program went about $25,000 in the red, and the deficit was met by pro-rating doctor bills for one month at about 60 cents on the dollar.

The Delegation has been formally requested to consider a number of other measures at the short session which opens today.

Requests Received

These include the legislative program of the Maryland Municipal League, which was outlined at a recent regional meeting of the League with area legislators.

They were briefed on the county and state needs of Department of Public Welfare at a meeting here January 22.

The Westernport and Luke Lions Club has forwarded a resolution asking that State Road Commission's plans for the State Route 36 improvements, between Lonaconing and Westernport, as outlined in its 12-year program, be advanced.

Local brewing firms have asked the delegation to help override Governor McKeldin's veto of House Bill 687, the liquor excise tax bill, which would give counties 50 cents a gallon revenue for each gallon of distilled spirits purchased in the county.

Must Be Urgent

Delegate Charles M. See, chairman of the Allegany County delegation, reported recently the delegation will try to give consideration to any emergency bills wanted by residents of the area but added it was not up to the county delegation to say whether any bills can be acted upon.

The session which opens today and ends March 4 is set aside for consideration of the budget, state wide bills and emergency local legislation.

All bills submitted, he said, are first sent to the Rules Committee, which screens all measures, and then refers them to the proper committee if the committee believes they come within the scope of the session. Local legislation, he said, is generally thrown out unless it is actually of an emergency nature.

License Board Orders Hearing For Raccosta

Frank Raccosta, trading as Queen City Tavern, 10 Queen City Pavement, yesterday was ordered to appear before the Allegany County Board of License Commissioners at 10 a. m. Tuesday, February 16, to show cause why his beer license should not be suspended.

Raccosta pleaded guilty in Circuit Court January 20 to a charge of selling beer illegally to a 16-year-old boy November 6. Associate Judge Morgan C. Harris fined him $500.

At yesterday's meeting the board also issued a beer, wine and liquor to Edward J. Wilson for the Market Tavern, 200 South Mechanic Street. The license had been held jointly by Wilson and Sara B. Hutson.

Jobless Benefit Requests Drop For Second Time

BALTIMORE, Feb. 2 (AP) — The number of new applicants seeking unemployment benefits declined again last week, for the second week in a row, the Maryland Department of Employment Security reported today.

There were 5,397 who came in last week and filed new claims for unemployment pay. This was 328 fewer than in the week which ended Jan. 23, a week which in turn had shown a decline of 2,266 as compared with the week ended Jan. 16.

The number of claims in those two earlier weeks pushed to 24,875 the number of claimants who received unemployment pay checks last week.

They also boosted the total paid out last week to $599,000, the highest figure rung up since the current downturn in employment started in November.

The decline in the number of new claims last week was recorded largely in Maryland's counties, with the situation in Baltimore remaining almost static.

The department's report and analysis staff said last week's layoffs were mostly small and widely scattered among various types of industry. Most of the layoffs were reported as temporary, ranging from two weeks to an indefinite period. The one big layoff reported during the week was characterized as "definitely temporary."

Last week's new claims left 30,272 persons either asking for or already getting payments — still less than 5 per cent of the estimated 650,000 workers in Maryland in industries covered by the unemployment compensation system.

The announced layoff of 1,000 at the Fairchild Aircraft Division plant in Hagerstown last week does not show up in the employment security department's report on last week's operations, since the layoffs were not effective until this week. The department expects to get about 300 claims from among the 1,000 workers.

Young Prisoner Floods Jail

A boy who was placed in the County Jail on his 17th birthday, yesterday went on a rampage and flooded the ground floor of the lockup with water.

Sheriff Edward R. Muir said that the boy, Charles Russell Calhoun, who lives on Paca Street, disconnected the water spigot allowing the water to flow until it covered much of the floor of the cell block. Calhoun also dumped his coffee into the water, adding to the mess.

Several other prisoners notified sheriff's deputies, who placed Calhoun in the confinement quarters of the jail, where he will remain indefinitely. Three or four trustees cleaned up the jail in about five minutes, the sheriff added.

The Paca Street boy and John Vincent Green, a 15-year-old Henry Street youth, were taken to the County Jail Monday after $2,500 bonds were set for them on charges of using a dangerous weapon to rob a Flintstone man of $30 January 17. They were captured in Baltimore January 29 where they reportedly had forced the Flintstone man to take them. Calhoun and Green face Grand Jury action in April.

Eagles Planning Ceremony To Usher In Freedom Week

Members of Cumberland Aerie 245, Fraternal Order of Eagles are planning to participate in a balloon launching ceremony on Lincoln's Birthday, February 12, to signal the opening of Freedom Week.

Large plastic balloons, similar to those used by the Crusade of Freedom to carry news behind the "Iron Curtain" in Europe, will be released at noon at the City Hall.

Officiating will be Mayor Roy W. Eves, according to Charles Robinette, president of the local Aerie.

Members of the organization will meet at the Eagles Home on North Mechanic Street at 11:30 a. m. February 12 and march to City Hall.

Representatives of community, service, civic, business, labor and youth organizations supporting the Crusade for Freedom are invited to take part in the ceremonies.

"Each of the balloons," Robinette said, "will carry a special message from our Aerie, inviting the finder to join the Crusade for Freedom and enlist the help of friends and neighbors." Small envelopes are enclosed in the balloons in which finders may mail their "Truth Dollars."

"The balloon launching, called the 'Eagles Flight for Freedom,' is one of hundreds of similar events taking place at the same time in communities throughout the country, under the sponsorship of the Fraternal Order of Eagles," Robinette added.

Smoke Report Is Discussed At Meeting

The operation of one steam locomotive cited by the City Smoke Abatement Department was discussed at a Cumberland Terminal meeting held yesterday afternoon in City Hall, with A. W. Conley, superintendent of the B & O's Cumberland Division presiding.

The "caution" rating was issued by the city against Engine No. 5569 at the B & O terminal here on December 1. The locomotive, in charge of its crew, was standing on the ready track when it was observed making "No. 4" smoke for five minutes.

J. M. Bradburn, assistant road foreman of engines for the Pittsburg Division, said the crew reported the coal being used was of a poor grade, that they had reported the engine was smoking and that the flues were cleaned at their first stop.

A. E. Beckman, master mechanic, said he would check the report.

Clear stacks were reported in 15 other observations made by the department during December.

Charles F. Owens, deputy smoke inspector, was unable to attend the conference due to a meeting in Cincinnati.

Also attending were E. M. Scherch, superintendent of the Back Shops, and F. L. McGaga, asssistant road foreman of engines for the Cumberland Division, for the B & O. Harry Holsberry and Edward Opel represented the Western Maryland Railway, and Mrs. Ruth V. Morgan, of the Smoke Abatement staff, acted as secretary.

Boniece To Head Civic Theatre Workshop Here

Robert Boniece was named chairman of the Cumberland Civic Theatre's Workshop during an organizational meeting at City Hall Monday night.

The purpose of the workshop, Boniece pointed out, is to provide an outlet for those members desiring to learn to act, direct, write or participate in any other phase of dramatic work.

During meetings of the workshop, basic acting will be taught, including pantomime and skits. Members will be given a chance to write small skits and one-act plays which will be reviewed and polished up for later use.

During Monday's meeting, according to Robert E. Pence, director of the Cumberland Recreation Department, several said they were interested in learning fundamentals of acting while others expressed a desire to write plays and direct them.

This will be accomplished through the workshop and plans are under way to meet twice a week. Pence said that since the facilities at City Hall are not always available, another location will be sought for alternate meetings.

Anyone interested in joining the Workshop is invited to attend a meeting Monday at 8 p. m. in City Hall. High school students are encouraged to join the organization, Boniece added.

The next production to be staged by the theatre group will be "Boy Meets Girl," scheduled on Friday, February 12, at Allegany High School.

Municipal Elections Set June 1, 15

In spite of 17 new registrants, eligible voters in Cumberland dropped five last month, leaving a total of 14,470 persons certified to cast ballots in city elections.

The 17 new voters included four who became eligible to vote when they became 21.

Stricken from the books were 21 voters who died during recent weeks, and one person who moved outside the city.

Two name changes and two changes in voting places did not affect the total.

As of January 31, the city voting lists included 7,639 male whites and 174 colored males; 6,560 white females and 97 colored females.

The registration total of 17 was considered poor, in view of the coming elections, but was the highest since October, when 26 registered, many of them while paying tax bills.

Mrs. Ruth Mangus, registration clerk, said the peak of new registration is expected to begin about the middle of March.

The registration deadline to be eligible to vote in the June 1 primary and June 15 municipal election is May 11, 20 days before the primary.

Many 21-year-olds are expected to cast ballots for the first time this year. To be registered, they must be 21 by June 15, the date of the municipal election.

Others must have been residents of the city for one year by the date of the election.

So far, no candidates have filed for the city election, according to Wallace G. Ullery, city clerk.

The city registration office is located in the basement of City Hall and is open Monday through Friday from 9 a. m. to noon and 1 to 5 p. m.

Whisky Tax Would Give Co. $63,000

Allegany County stands to get more than $63,000 a year in excise tax revenue from distilled spirits if the General Assembly overrides Governor Theodore R. McKeldin's veto of House Bill 687.

Figures released by the Maryland Liquor Advisory Council show that on the basis of 1952 whisky sales in this county the revenue would be $63,766. A report taken from the Maryland-Washington-Delaware Beverage Journal shows that 127,532 gallons of whisky and other distilled spirits were sold in Allegany County during 1952, the last year on which complete figures are available. That amounts to 1.42 gallons per person for the year.

House Bill 687 would give each county 50 cents on each gallon of distilled spirits sold in that county. The other $1 on each gallon would go to the state. The state now gets $1.25 per gallon.

Meanwhile, William H. Lemmert, president of the Allegany County Board of Commissioners, yesterday sent a letter to Delegate Charles M. See, chairman of the County Delegation, formally soliciting the support of the delegation for passage of House Bill 687 over Governor McKeldin's veto.

In another action yesterday, the County Commissioners awarded the contract to Joseph S. Karp and Brothers, Inc., 125 South Mechanic Street, for a steam table for the County Infirmary on a low bid of $290.

Two-Day Trial Set To Start Tomorrow

Tomorrow and Friday have been set aside for a jury trial in Allegany County Circuit Court of eight suits filed by Elonzo H. Hare, 879 Ridgedale Avenue, and relatives against the Queen City Co-Operative Dairy, Inc., 310 South Mechanic Street. Damages asked total $18,500.

Associate Judge Morgan C. Harris will preside at the trial. Attorney for the plaintiffs is Earl E. Manges. The dairy is represented by William H. Geppert and W. Earle Cobey.

Suffers Head Injury

Mrs. Elsie Jenkins, Barton, an employe at the Amcelle Plant, is reported in "good" condition at Memorial Hospital, where she was admitted last week with a head injury sustained while at work.

County Road Expenses Hit $75,971 For Three Months

It cost $75,971.95 to operate the Allegany County Roads Department during the last three months of 1953, according to a report submitted to the Board of County Commissioners yesterday by County Roads Supervisor J. Walker Chapman.

Chapman's report showed purchases cost $32,183.08 between October 1 and December 31, expenses for equipment totalled $11,223, labor for roads amounted to $39,736.42, sick leaves took another $614.80 and vacations accounted for $2,017.60.

The county roads supervisor submitted with his figures additional breakdowns concerning purchases and expenses for equipment.

Of the purchase money, Chapman reports $17,192.93 was spent for roads and bridges, $9,802.95 for equipment, $803.32 for tools and $4,383.88 for miscellaneous purposes. Expenses for equipment included $3,400.24 for gas and oil, $1,121.42 for tires, $80.02 for batteries, $1,880.60 for insurance, $2,598.77 for parts and $2,141.95 for labor.

Concerning purchases, Chapman lists firms from which they were made. Items exceeding $1,000 in this group were $9,797.71 to Cumberland Cement Company, $3,516.43 to the Garland Petroleum Company, $2,429.70 to Heiskell Motor Sales, $1,797.92 for insurance, $1,105.19 to the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company and $1,157.85 to the McClung-Logan Equipment Company.

Ridgeley, Local Officials Will Air Flood Plans

Town Commission Seeks Protection

Bitterly protesting what they called a move to "sell Ridgeley down the river" the Ridgeley Flood Protection Commission last night demanded that prompt action be taken to provide adequate protection for the town in event of floods during present construction work on the Potomac River.

Spearheading the protest was Police Commissioner Charles Fryer and the council's legal advisor, J. H. Simmons, both members of the Flood Protection Commission of Ridgeley. They voiced their protest at a meeting of the Ridgeley Mayor and Council.

Claiming numerous protests from citizens of Ridgeley who he said are confused as to what is going to be done for Ridgeley during the phase of building levees on the river and construction of the dam across the Potomac, Fryer said the town is apparently going to be left to bear the brunt of high waters under present plans.

Object To Changes

Seeking immediate action from the council in protest to "so many changes in plans" by Army Engineers and construction workers and the City of Cumberland, Fryer moved the council meet with Cumberland's Mayor and City Council "within the next week" in answer to a letter from Mayor Roy W. Eves of Cumberland calling for such a meeting.

Simmons stated the town of Ridgeley had made an agreement with Cumberland to the effect it would bear its portion of the cost of the flood protection and in turn Ridgeley was to be given adequate protection during the construction work on the river.

Simmons read Eves' letter, which asked for a meeting between the two councils to discuss levees along the river banks and for construction of a new water line across the Potomac with the cost to be borne by Ridgeley.

Fryer's motion to arrange the meeting within the next seven days was immediately adopted by the council.

Survey To Be Conducted

In conjunction with the flood work, Simmons reported on negotiations to begin an immediate preliminary survey of Ridgeley for the purpose of construction of a sewage disposal plant as ordered by the West Virginia State Health Department.

Simmons said he figured the preliminary survey could be completed at a cost of approximately $1,000, but thought it would be useless to take any action at present until the matter of flood protection has been completed.

"A sewage disposal plant would be useless without the flood program offering adequate protection for the town of Ridgeley," he said.

The council ordered Simmons to continue negotiations for the survey until definite action can be taken. The state health department has ordered that the survey be made by March 15.

Gas Rates Discussed

A motion to protest the proposed gas rate hike by the C&A Gas Company was made and the council decreed letters should be written to the West Virginia Public Service Commission outlining the town's stand on the matter of higher gas rates.

The financial report showed a balance of $8,516.02 in the town's treasury as of January 31, with $6,608.19 in the general fund and $1,907.83 in the Water Department fund. General collections for the month were $1,680.27 and disbursements $2,118.61. Water collections were $49.11 and disbursements $587.13.

Payment of current bills presented to the council was approved. The total billing amounted to $658.21 with the largest bill $521.10 for water.

Council protested the high expense for use of water and asked immediate check be made to see if leaks, breaks or other defects were wasting water before approving payment of the water bill.

The council session was presided over by Mayor W. D. Biddinger.

Willis Forfeits Bond In Mine Labor Dispute

An Elk Garden, W. Va. man, charged with failure to obey a lawful order of a police officer during a mine labor dispute in the Kitzmiller, Md.-Blaine, W. Va. section on Monday, yesterday forfeited bond by failure to appear at a hearing before Trial Magistrate William Bitzer of Oakland.

Sheriff Paul Fisher of Garrett County arrested John Dewey Willis on Monday as trouble flared up between union and non-union coal miners.

Willis reportedly had refused to remove his automobile from the interstate bridge between the two communities. During the dispute Monday afternoon one unidentified man reportedly was assaulted and was taken to Garrett Memorial Hospital in Oakland for treatment.

Yesterday, Maryland and West Virginia State Police were reported on the scene to maintain order and keep the highway open. Police said pickets were out but no trouble was reported.

Bloodmobile Sets All-Time Record

217½ Pints Given In One-Day Visit

An overwhelming response to appeals for blood donors to the Red Cross Blood Mobile yesterday at the Eagles Home resulted in a one-day record for Cumberland and fulfillment of the two-day county quota.

According to Mrs. Charles F. Helmrich, recruiting chairman, a total of 217½ pints of blood was donated. Added to the 97 pints collected in Lonaconing from Georges Creek residents on Monday, this totaled 314½, or 14½ pints more than the two-day quota of 300.

All-Time Record

It was one of the few times Allegany County has met its full two-day quota, and the result here yesterday was an all-time one-day record since the beginning of the blood bank plan as sponsored by the Red Cross.

Mrs. Helmrich said 336 donors were scheduled for yesterday, and 179 came in. The others were ill, out of town or cancelled their appointments for other reasons. However, the record day resulted when a total of 85 walk-ins volunteered. This was another record for volunteer walk-ins, the highest previous number being 67 on any single day.

Of those giving blood yesterday, however, only 28 were first time donors, which means, Mrs. Helmrich pointed out, that most of the blood collected came from people who had donated before.

Blood Still Needed

Eight persons became members of the Red Cross Gallon Club because the blood they gave yesterday made a total of eight pints. The new Gallon Club members include, Stephen Rowan, 16 Mary Street; Raymond Dorn, 824 Camden Avenue; Mrs. Maude Banzhoff, 415 Bedford Street; Mrs. Virginia Jenkins, Potomac Park; Donald S. Hudson, RFD 5, Garland P. Cooper, Burlington, and Mrs. Virginia Broome, Patterson Creek.

Red Cross officials here last night were pleased with the response to the appeals for blood. If the Blood Mobile is to make regular visits here, and if hospitals in the county are to continue their affiliation with the mobile blood bank program, officials point out, that it is essential that quotas of 150 pints a day on each visit be met.

For some months now, hospitals in this county have been using more blood from the bank than Allegany County citizens have been donating.

Opinion Settles Dispute Over O'Neill Estate

Daughter Need Not Pay For Funeral

Mrs. Hazel Green of Lonaconing is not required to pay the debts and $650.50 funeral expenses of her father, the late Benjamin J. O'Neill of Homewood Addition, from a $1,567.33 savings account he gave her nine days before his death.

That ruling is set out in a four-page opinion filed yesterday by Associate Judge Morgan C. Harris in an equity suit in Allegany County Circuit Court.

Brings Action

The action was brought by William R. Carscaden as administrator c.t.a. of O'Neill's estate, against Mrs. Green. Subsequently, three other children of O'Neill—Elmer O'Neill, Alberta Fuller and John O'Neill—were made parties plaintiff. A fifth child of O'Neill, William O'Neill, lives in the West and was not a party to the proceedings.

In his will, O'Neill left $300 each to his two daughters and $200 each to the three sons. Aside from the disputed bank account he had personal property sold for $78.30 and real estate which was sold for $1,100, making a total of $1,178.30.

Judge Harris notes in his opinion that O'Neill named Mrs. Green executrix of his estate. After a dispute arose among the legatees, Mrs. Green declined to act as executrix and Carscaden was named administrator c.t.a.

Agreement Argued

The complainants contend that when the Hazel C. Green account was created at First Federal Savings and Loan Association October 21, 1952, there was an agreement between O'Neill and his daughter that she would pay all of his debts and funeral expenses in the event of his death. Judge Harris concludes that the complainants have not met the burden of proof to show that the account was anything but a gift.

"There is nothing to show that he (O'Neill) was coerced into doing anything he did not want to do," Judge Harris wrote. "This gift to her (Mrs. Green) seems to be the result of some affection, attachment or parental love that a father sometimes has for one child more than another. If a man disposes of his estate in the free exercise of his own free will and judgment, the court is not authorized to nullify his gift because of the judicial belief that he may have been too generous or that he disregarded consideration of kinship which should justly have been recognized . . . ," he added.

In dismissing the suit, Judge Harris ordered the complainants to pay the court costs.

Suspended Term Given Youth In Parent Assault

James E. Porter, 19, of Corriganville, yesterday was given a year's suspended sentence in the Maryland House of Correction on a charge of assaulting his father, John Porter, in an altercation at the family's home Sunday, January 24.

Porter pleaded not guilty before Magistrate J. Milton Dick in Trial Magistrate Court after waiving a jury trial. Dick, in passing sentence on the youth, stipulated the boy was to seek employment, help his parents financially, be of good behavior generally, and attend church regularly.

The tussle started with an argument in the home after the parents had returned from church, Porter told the court. The boy was accused of using "profane language" and, when he was admonished by his father the argument began.

Cpl. William F. Baker, criminal investigator for the Maryland State Police, said the youth had assaulted his father and given the older man such a severe beating that he required hospitalization for six days.

Released from the hospital on Saturday, the elder Porter appeared in court yesterday and pleaded for leniency on behalf of his son.

Unemployed and permanently disabled following a rock quarry explosion near Corriganville several years ago, the father is unable to work.

However, Judge Dick, in view of the youth's promise to aid his parents and because of the father's wish that the boy not be sent away, suspended the term.

Schade Is Given Suspended Term In Auto Theft

Harold W. Schade, 32, of Galitzen, Pa., yesterday was given a suspended one-year sentence to the Maryland House of Correction on a charge of unauthorized use of a motor vehicle when he appeared before Magistrate Donald W. Mason, Trial Magistrates Court.

Schade was arrested last Friday by West Virginia State Police after the vehicle he was driving crashed into a guard rail. The automobile, owned by Leo F. Bergman, 210 Beall Street, had been reported stolen from North Mechanic Street in Cumberland, some 15 or 20 minutes prior to the accident, on West Virginia Route 28 near the Miltenberger farm.

Mason said last night that Schade had a wife and two children and that he had no previous criminal record. Schade, said police, had admitted taking the car and had been held in Allegany County Jail on $1,000 bond pending his hearing yesterday before Mason.

The magistrate suspended the one-year term with the condition that Schade leave the state of Maryland and not return, be of good behavior generally, and support his wife and children.

Detective Lt. James E. Van swore out the warrant against Schade and federal authorities were interested in the case because the stolen car had been transported across a state line.

However, Mason said last night the federal authorities had decided not to prosecute.

Doctors Request More Funds For Medical Care

Requests Referred To County Delegation

The Allegany-Garrett Medical Society has asked the Allegany County Delegation to the General Assembly to help restore a $50,000 cut made last year in funds alloted to the Medical Care program in Maryland.

The decreased appropriation resulted in the dropping of some 2,000 persons from the Medical Care rolls in the state. In Allegany County, the 1953-54 quota was dropped about 250 to 2,402, as a result of the economy move.

Provisions were made here, as elsewhere in the state, to take care of any exceptional or emergency cases.

The Medical Care program was set up in Maryland a number of years ago to provide free medical and dental services for those who cannot afford to pay for the services.

In 1952-53 the program went about $25,000 in the red, and the deficit was met by pro-rating doctor bills for one month at about 60 cents on the dollar.

The Delegation has been formally requested to consider a number of other measures at the short session which opens today.

Requests Received

These include the legislative program of the Maryland Municipal League, which was outlined at a recent regional meeting of the League with area legislators.

They were briefed on the county and state needs of Department of Public Welfare at a meeting here January 22.

The Westernport and Luke Lions Club has forwarded a resolution asking that State Road Commission's plans for the State Route 36 improvements, between Lonaconing and Westernport, as outlined in its 12-year program, be advanced.

Local brewing firms have asked the delegation to help override Governor McKeldin's veto of House Bill 687, the liquor excise tax bill, which would give counties 50 cents a gallon revenue for each gallon of distilled spirits purchased in the county.

Must Be Urgent

Delegate Charles M. See, chairman of the Allegany County delegation, reported recently the delegation will try to give consideration to any emergency bills wanted by residents of the area but added it was not up to the county delegation to say whether any bills can be acted upon.

The session which opens today and ends March 4 is set aside for consideration of the budget, state wide bills and emergency local legislation.

All bills submitted, he said, are first sent to the Rules Committee, which screens all measures, and then refers them to the proper committee if the committee believes they come within the scope of the session. Local legislation, he said, is generally thrown out unless it is actually of an emergency nature.

License Board Orders Hearing For Raccosta

Frank Raccosta, trading as Queen City Tavern, 10 Queen City Pavement, yesterday was ordered to appear before the Allegany County Board of License Commissioners at 10 a. m. Tuesday, February 16, to show cause why his beer license should not be suspended.

Raccosta pleaded guilty in Circuit Court January 20 to a charge of selling beer illegally to a 16-year-old boy November 6. Associate Judge Morgan C. Harris fined him $500.

At yesterday's meeting the board also issued a beer, wine and liquor to Edward J. Wilson for the Market Tavern, 200 South Mechanic Street. The license had been held jointly by Wilson and Sara B. Hutson.

Jobless Benefit Requests Drop For Second Time

BALTIMORE, Feb. 2 (AP) — The number of new applicants seeking unemployment benefits declined again last week, for the second week in a row, the Maryland Department of Employment Security reported today.

There were 5,397 who came in last week and filed new claims for unemployment pay. This was 328 fewer than in the week which ended Jan. 23, a week which in turn had shown a decline of 2,266 as compared with the week ended Jan. 16.

The number of claims in those two earlier weeks pushed to 24,875 the number of claimants who received unemployment pay checks last week.

They also boosted the total paid out last week to $599,000, the highest figure rung up since the current downturn in employment started in November.

The decline in the number of new claims last week was recorded largely in Maryland's counties, with the situation in Baltimore remaining almost static.

The department's report and analysis staff said last week's layoffs were mostly small and widely scattered among various types of industry. Most of the layoffs were reported as temporary, ranging from two weeks to an indefinite period. The one big layoff reported during the week was characterized as "definitely temporary."

Last week's new claims left 30,272 persons either asking for or already getting payments — still less than 5 per cent of the estimated 650,000 workers in Maryland in industries covered by the unemployment compensation system.

The announced layoff of 1,000 at the Fairchild Aircraft Division plant in Hagerstown last week does not show up in the employment security department's report on last week's operations, since the layoffs were not effective until this week. The department expects to get about 300 claims from among the 1,000 workers.

Young Prisoner Floods Jail

A boy who was placed in the County Jail on his 17th birthday, yesterday went on a rampage and flooded the ground floor of the lockup with water.

Sheriff Edward R. Muir said that the boy, Charles Russell Calhoun, who lives on Paca Street, disconnected the water spigot allowing the water to flow until it covered much of the floor of the cell block. Calhoun also dumped his coffee into the water, adding to the mess.

Several other prisoners notified sheriff's deputies, who placed Calhoun in the confinement quarters of the jail, where he will remain indefinitely. Three or four trustees cleaned up the jail in about five minutes, the sheriff added.

Calhoun was the only one of the 17 inmates of the jail who participated in the disturbance, Sheriff Muir said.

The Paca Street boy and John Vincent Green, a 15-year-old Henry Street youth, were taken to the County Jail Monday after $2,500 bonds were set for them on charges of using a dangerous weapon to rob a Flintstone man of $30 January 17. They were captured in Baltimore January 29 where they reportedly had forced the Flintstone man to take them. Calhoun and Green face Grand Jury action in April.

"The balloon launching, called the 'Eagles Flight for Freedom,' is one of hundreds of similar events taking place at the same time in communities throughout the country, under the sponsorship of the Fraternal Order of Eagles," Robinette added.

Smoke Report Is Discussed At Meeting

The operation of one steam locomotive cited by the City Smoke Abatement Department was discussed at a Cumberland Terminal meeting held yesterday afternoon in City Hall, with A. W. Conley, superintendent of the B & O's Cumberland Division presiding.

The "caution" rating was issued by the city against Engine No. 5569 at the B & O terminal here on December 1. The locomotive, in charge of its crew, was standing on the ready track when it was observed making "No. 4" smoke for five minutes.

J. M. Bradburn, assistant road foreman of engines for the Pittsburg Division, said the crew reported the coal being used was of a poor grade, that they had reported the engine was smoking and that the flues were cleaned at their first stop.

A. E. Beckman, master mechanic, said he would check the report.

Clear stacks were reported in 15 other observations made by the department during December.

Charles F. Owens, deputy smoke inspector, was unable to attend the conference due to a meeting in Cincinnati.

Also attending were E. M. Scherch, superintendent of the Back Shops, and F. L. McGaga, asssistant road foreman of engines for the Cumberland Division, for the B & O. Harry Holsberry and Edward Opel represented the Western Maryland Railway, and Mrs. Ruth V. Morgan, of the Smoke Abatement staff, acted as secretary.

Boniece To Head Civic Theatre Workshop Here

Robert Boniece was named chairman of the Cumberland Civic Theatre's Workshop during an organizational meeting at City Hall Monday night.

The purpose of the workshop, Boniece pointed out, is to provide an outlet for those members desiring to learn to act, direct, write or participate in any other phase of dramatic work.

During meetings of the workshop, basic acting will be taught, including pantomime and skits. Members will be given a chance to write small skits and one-act plays which will be reviewed and polished up for later use.

During Monday's meeting, according to Robert E. Pence, director of the Cumberland Recreation Department, several said they were interested in learning fundamentals of acting while others expressed a desire to write plays and direct them.

This will be accomplished through the workshop and plans are under way to meet twice a week. Pence said that since the facilities at City Hall are not always available, another location will be sought for alternate meetings.

Anyone interested in joining the Workshop is invited to attend a meeting Monday at 8 p. m. in City Hall. High school students are encouraged to join the organization, Boniece added.

The next production to be staged by the theatre group will be "Boy Meets Girl," scheduled on Friday, February 12, at Allegany High School.

Municipal Elections Set June 1, 15

In spite of 17 new registrants, eligible voters in Cumberland dropped five last month, leaving a total of 14,470 persons certified to cast ballots in city elections.

The 17 new voters included four who became eligible to vote when they became 21.

Stricken from the books were 21 voters who died during recent weeks, and one person who moved outside the city.

Two name changes and two changes in voting places did not affect the total.

As of January 31, the city voting lists included 7,639 male whites and 174 colored males; 6,560 white females and 97 colored females.

The registration total of 17 was considered poor, in view of the coming elections, but was the highest since October, when 26 registered, many of them while paying tax bills.

Mrs. Ruth Mangus, registration clerk, said the peak of new registration is expected to begin about the middle of March.

The registration deadline to be eligible to vote in the June 1 primary and June 15 municipal election is May 11, 20 days before the primary.

Many 21-year-olds are expected to cast ballots for the first time this year. To be registered, they must be 21 by June 15, the date of the municipal election.

Others must have been residents of the city for one year by the date of the election.

So far, no candidates have filed for the city election, according to Wallace G. Ullery, city clerk.

The city registration office is located in the basement of City Hall and is open Monday through Friday from 9 a. m. to noon and 1 to 5 p. m.

Whisky Tax Would Give Co. $63,000

Allegany County stands to get more than $63,000 a year in excise tax revenue from distilled spirits if the General Assembly overrides Governor Theodore R. McKeldin's veto of House Bill 687.

Figures released by the Maryland Liquor Advisory Council show that on the basis of 1952 whisky sales in this county the revenue would be $63,766. A report taken from the Maryland-Washington-Delaware Beverage Journal shows that 127,532 gallons of whisky and other distilled spirits were sold in Allegany County during 1952, the last year on which complete figures are available. That amounts to 1.42 gallons per person for the year.

House Bill 687 would give each county 50 cents on each gallon of distilled spirits sold in that county. The other $1 on each gallon would go to the state. The state now gets $1.25 per gallon.

Meanwhile, William H. Lemmert, president of the Allegany County Board of Commissioners, yesterday sent a letter to Delegate Charles M. See, chairman of the County Delegation, formally soliciting the support of the delegation for passage of House Bill 687 over Governor McKeldin's veto.

In another action yesterday, the County Commissioners awarded the contract to Joseph S. Karp and Brothers, Inc., 125 South Mechanic Street, for a steam table for the County Infirmary on a low bid of $290.

Two-Day Trial Set To Start Tomorrow

Associate Judge Morgan C. Harris will preside at the trial. Attorney for the plaintiffs is Earl E. Manges. The dairy is represented by William H. Geppert and W. Earle Cobey.

County Road Expenses Hit $75,971 For Three Months

It cost $75,971.95 to operate the Allegany County Roads Department during the last three months of 1953, according to a report submitted to the Board of County Commissioners yesterday by County Roads Supervisor J. Walker Chapman.

Chapman's report showed purchases cost $32,183.08 between October 1 and December 31, expenses for equipment totalled $11,223, labor for roads amounted to $39,736.42, sick leaves took another $614.80 and vacations accounted for $2,017.60.

The county roads supervisor submitted with his figures additional breakdowns concerning purchases and expenses for equipment.

Of the purchase money, Chapman reports $17,192.93 was spent for roads and bridges, $9,802.95 for equipment, $803.32 for tools and $4,383.88 for miscellaneous purposes. Expenses for equipment included $3,400.24 for gas and oil, $1,121.42 for tires, $80.02 for batteries, $1,880.60 for insurance, $2,598.77 for parts and $2,141.95 for labor.

Concerning purchases, Chapman lists firms from which they were made. Items exceeding $1,000 in this group were $9,797.71 to Cumberland Cement Company, $3,516.43 to the Garland Petroleum Company, $2,429.70 to Heiskell Motor Sales, $1,797.92 for insurance, $1,105.19 to the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company and $1,157.85 to the McClung-Logan Equipment Company.

Ridgeley, Local Officials Will Air Flood Plans

Town Commission Seeks Protection

Bitterly protesting what they called a move to "sell Ridgeley down the river" the Ridgeley Flood Protection Commission last night demanded that prompt action be taken to provide adequate protection for the town in event of floods during present construction work on the Potomac River.

Spearheading the protest was Police Commissioner Charles Fryer and the council's legal advisor, J. H. Simmons, both members of the Flood Protection Commission of Ridgeley. They voiced their protest at a meeting of the Ridgeley Mayor and Council.

Claiming numerous protests from citizens of Ridgeley who he said are confused as to what is going to be done for Ridgeley during the phase of building levees on the river and construction of the dam across the Potomac, Fryer said the town is apparently going to be left to bear the brunt of high waters under present plans.

Object To Changes

Seeking immediate action from the council in protest to "so many changes in plans" by Army Engineers and construction workers and the City of Cumberland, Fryer moved the council meet with Cumberland's Mayor and City Council "within the next week" in answer to a letter from Mayor Roy W. Eves of Cumberland calling for such a meeting.

Simmons stated the town of Ridgeley had made an agreement with Cumberland to the effect it would bear its portion of the cost of the flood protection and in turn Ridgeley was to be given adequate protection during the construction work on the river.

Simmons read Eves' letter, which asked for a meeting between the two councils to discuss levees along the river banks and for construction of a new water line across the Potomac with the cost to be borne by Ridgeley.

Fryer's motion to arrange the meeting within the next seven days was immedately adopted by the council.

Survey To Be Conducted

In conjunction with the flood work, Simmons reported on negotiations to begin an immediate preliminary survey of Ridgeley for the purpose of construction of a sewage disposal plant as ordered by the West Virginia State Health Department.

Simmons said he figured the preliminary survey could be completed at a cost of approximately $1,000, but thought it would be useless to take any action at present until the matter of flood protection has been completed.

"A sewage disposal plant would be useless without the flood program offering adequate protection for the town of Ridgeley," he said.

The council ordered Simmons to continue negotiations for the survey until definite action can be taken. The state health department has ordered that the survey be made by March 15.

Gas Rates Discussed

A motion to protest the proposed gas rate hike by the C&A Gas Company was made and the council decreed letters should be written to the West Virginia Public Service Commission outlining the town's stand on the matter of higher gas rates.

The financial report showed a balance of $8,516.02 in the town's treasury as of January 31, with $6,608.19 in the general fund and $1,907.83 in the Water Department fund. General collections for the month were $1,680.27 and disbursements $2,118.61. Water collections were $49.11 and disbursements $587.13.

Payment of current bills presented to the council was approved. The total billing amounted to $658.21 with the largest bill $521.10 for water.

Council protested the high expense for use of water and asked immediate check be made to see if leaks, breaks or other defects were wasting water before approving payment of the water bill.

The council session was presided over by Mayor W. D. Biddinger.
